Threat to 500-Mile Stretch

Hurricane Betsy Blows Toward the Carolinas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Betsy raged on toward the coasts of the Carolinas today and chased small craft into port over a 500-mile eastern seaboard stretch from Cape Kennedy to Cape Hatteras.

In a bulletin at 8 a.m. (EST), the Miami Weather Bureau said it was preparing to post a hurricane watch along portions of the North and South Carolina coasts. A "watch" is an alert preliminary to actual hurricane warnings.

A hurricane hunter pilot who rode a bucking plane through the storm most of the night reported that Betsy's highest winds of 125 miles an hour were whipping around a well-defined eye 25 miles in diameter.

Bahamas Escape

The Bahamas Islands escaped damage as the hurricane whirled up the Atlantic Ocean east of the chain. Winds peaked at 35 miles an hour on Abaco, one of the larger islands.

At 8 a.m., Betsy was centered near latitude 28.2 north, longitude 75.3 west. This is about 325 miles east of Melbourne, Fla., and 500 miles south of Cape Hatteras.

Churns Up Ocean

The storm churned up 120,000 square miles of the Atlantic. Tides were expected to rise during the day from Cape Kennedy northward as Betsy moved toward the northwest at eight miles an hour.

Forecasters warned that the tightly organized storm, with peak winds of 125 miles an hour, posed a threat to the coastline south of Cape Hatteras, N.C. "It's going to get rough up there over the weekend," said forecaster Raymond Kraft.

"We still won't know 'till Sunday whether it will go ashore," he said, "but we don't want a lot of people out in small boats or swimming around in the ocean even if it doesn't."

Heavy seas, pushed by Betsy's 400-mile-wide sweep of gales, are running 6 feet or better 75 miles off the Georgia coast, Kraft said.

Pounding surf will begin battering beaches Sunday, he said, and will get rougher as Betsy approaches.

Late Friday night, Betsy was 500 miles south of Charleston, S.C., and heading toward it at 12 m.p.h.

Two weather conditions were battling to see which would steer Betsy, Kraft said. One was the lower-level westerly winds that tend to push her toward the open Atlantic. The other was a high-level air trough sucking her toward the coast.

No Way to Forecast

There was no way of forecasting two days in advance which would win, he said.

The threat to Florida was almost nonexistent, he said. Betsy was expected to spin past the Florida coast 250 to 300 miles east of Jacksonville during the day.

The Bahamas escaped with little more than rough seas and mild gales. The storm missed Great Abaco Island, northernmost in the 750-mile chain, by 170 miles. Weather stations were reporting rough seas and 34 m.p.h. winds, but that was not enough to cause damage.

Just in case Betsy had changed course, as she has done so many times, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration evacuated personnel from Allac Cay, a small Bahama Island. Other stations on alert were not hit by high winds.

Daughter Says No Hope for Jungle Doctor

BY ANDREW BOROWICZ

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP) — Dr. Albert Schweitzer lapsed into a coma at his jungle hospital today and his daughter said there was no hope of saving him.

"There is no more hope of human effort that can save him," said his daughter, Mrs. Rhena Schweitzer Eckert.

All Has Been Done

A telegram sent by the hospital to members of the family and close friends of the 90-year-old jungle physician said tersely:

"He is dying stop inevitably and soon stop everything that can be done has been done stop he goes quietly and in peace and dignity."

Mrs. Eckert, her face showing signs of fatigue and sleepless nights, said, "another man would have given up long ago. But my father was stronger than most men."

He's Peaceful

Dr. Walter Muns, medical director of the hospital, said Schweitzer was "resting peacefully. He is not suffering."

Dr. Richard Friedmann, a long-time associate of Schweitzer, said the old doctor's kidney action had stopped functioning.

Schweitzer rallied briefly Friday afternoon, then lapsed into a coma.

"Late Friday night we knew that all was lost," said Friedmann.

Would Be Miracle

Dr. David Miller, an American heart specialist summoned to Schweitzer's bedside, said he was planning to fly back to the United States next Tuesday "barring a miracle."

Work went on as usual in the world famous jungle hospital set in a clearing on the banks of the muddy Ogoove River.

"We don't want to spread alarm among the Africans," one hospital staff member said.

Outside Schweitzer's wooden hut a group of tearful white-clad women assistants stood in a tense knot.

Occasionally the door of Schweitzer's sick room would open and a man or woman in tears would emerge.

1 Killed, 8 Hurt In Area Mishaps

With mass highway travel marking the outset of the last holiday weekend of the summer, area authorities before 11 a. m. today investigated traffic accidents in the Ulster-Greene area that claimed the life of an 18-year-old girl and resulted in injuries to eight other persons.

State Thruway troopers at the Kingston barracks reported "traffic on the Thruway is heavy, especially northbound."

Urges Safe Driving

Local and State Police officials repeatedly cautioned motorists to drive with extreme caution and obey all motor vehicle and traffic regulations.

Safety experts estimate that 500 to 600 persons could be killed in traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day holiday period which began at 6 p. m. Friday and ends at midnight on Monday.

The National Safety Council said total highway travel mileage probably will total 8.9 billion during the 78-hour period.

An 18-year-old Greene County girl was killed and six other teenagers were injured and hospitalized after 2:30 a. m. today in a spectacular two-car collision which occurred after the vehicles plunged down a 50-foot embankment off Carter Bridge Road at Wright Street, Town of Durham.

Greene Girl Killed

Leeds State Police said the victim of the early morning pre-holiday crash was Phyllis Akin, 18, of Oak Hill. Her injuries were not immediately determined.

Troopers reported the cars were a 1964 vehicle operated and owned by Paul T. Kelly, 18, of Hamilton Avenue, Yonkers, and a 1960 car driven by Peter Cosgrove, 17, of 6111 Spencer Avenue, the Bronx.

Both vehicles were traveling along the highway and both reportedly ran through the intersection where they veered off the pavement and toppled down the steep embankment, where one car landed on the top of the other.

Injured were, Richard Doyle, 18, of 72 Hamilton Avenue, Yonkers, who sustained a fractured right arm and multiple abrasions, and John McCallen, 17, of Morris Street, Yonkers, who received head injuries and a fractured left clavicle. They were taken to Columbia Memorial Hospital, Hudson.

Others injured and taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, were drivers; Carl Habine, 19, of Medusa, and Peter Calvera, 16, of Yonkers. Their injuries were not immediately determined, troopers said.

According to Leeds State Police, who investigated with Coroner Leland Cunningham, of Greenville, possible criminal action is pending. The coroner said he withheld a verdict pending further investigation by troopers.

City Youth Is Hurt

Michael D. Provenzano, 18, of 188 Bruyn Avenue, was injured at 1 a. m. today, when he lost control of his car as he swerved to avoid a deer that jumped in front of the vehicle on Route 213.

State Trooper Edward Pulver, Highland substation, said Provenzano told Trooper Joseph Henne he was driving east in the highway when a deer jumped from the north side of the road into the path of his car.

Provenzano swerved sharply to the right to avoid the deer and the car hit a utility pole, swerved and overturned. The vehicle skidded some distance on its top. The injured youth was taken to Benedictine Hospital and treated for multiple lacerations, abrasions and contusions.

Motorist Is Cited

While driving his car east on Cherry Hill Road, Kripplush, at 12:05 a. m. today, Aristotele C. Moshos, 24, Malden, lost control on a left curve and the vehicle went off the right shoulder and crashed into a stone wall.

John Adams, 25, Rosendale, a passenger, received lacerations of the right foot. Moshos apparently escaped injury. Trooper W. G. Lawrence of Ellenville cited the driver for failure to keep to the right.

Norman Sherman, 24, Bronx, escaped injury Friday night when his car hit a deer on Route 52 about 7½ miles west of Ellenville. The car was going east on the highway when a deer leaped from the left side of the road and was hit by the vehicle. Trooper J. E. Kelly issued a summons to Sherman charging him with operating a motor vehicle with unsafe tires.

Accidents took 54 lives during the early hours of the highway travel, according to The Associated Press. The total death toll was 66 before noon including one drowning and a boating fatality.

The deaths occurred in operation of most of the nation's 87 million motor vehicles. The National Safety Council, which made the death toll estimate, said total highway travel mileage probably will total 8.9 billion during the 78 hours between 6 p.m. (10-Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

Wage Package Between 46-48 Cents

Steel Settlement Is Ready for Policy Vote

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel industry negotiators return from Washington today, a new contract ready for ratification and the threat of an industry shutdown apparently ended.

President Johnson announced their agreement at the White House Friday night, saying: "The settlement is a fair one. It is designed to prevent the inflation which would damage our prosperity."

Officials didn't reveal the terms pending ratification, but sources said the wage-benefit package was an hour over three years, depending on whether union or management figures were used.

The 450,000-member United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, had sought a package it estimated at 48.9 cents. The 10-company management team pegged the package at 55 cents.

Pension Increase

Sources said the settlement would increase pensions about $5 a month per year of service, a 50-cent increase over the company's offer of $4.50. Under the old contract, the maximum pension was about $7.60 a month per year of service.

It couldn't be learned how much of increase in hourly wages the Steelworkers would receive. The average wage now is pegged at $4.40 an hour.

Government sources would say only that the agreement is within the White House guidelines of a 3.2 per cent annual increase.

Johnson said the negotiators, in reaching agreement, put the national interest, including the Viet Nam war, above their own interests.

Meeting Sunday

The union's 170-man wage policy committee meets in Pittsburgh at 9 a.m. Sunday to consider the White House spurred agreement.

A union source said no difficulty was expected. Ratification by the 10 major steel firms which produce 80 per cent of the nation's steel was expected to be routine.

The President called the steelmen from Pittsburgh to Washington on Monday, talked to them and that evening announced they had extended the shutdown deadline eight days from the original Tuesday midnight deadline.

The President kept the negotiators isolated in the Executive Office Building next door to the White House, sending them lunch and dinner, and prodding them at strategic moments.

Is Named Successor To Carroll Aldermanic Post Is Up to Schwenk

In one of those surprise political twists of fate, the Republican-controlled Common Council last night unanimously elected Democratic 9th Ward alderman T. Robert Gallo to succeed Joseph F. Carroll Jr. as alderman-at-large and Council president.

It was expected that the Council would pursue normal procedure and elect Majority Leader John Machione (R) 12th Ward to replace Carroll, whose resignation was accepted before the balloting at Friday's special meeting.

But a vote in favor of Gallo by Republican Edward J. Schwenk of the 1st Ward, who was first on the roll call seemed to set the trend which was to result in Gallo's election.

Unanimous Vote

By the time the vote was 6-3 for Gallo, Machione moved that the Democratic alderman be elected by the body. The motion was passed and Gallo became Carroll's successor as alderman-at-large and President of the Council.

Some Council sources indicate that Mayor Schwenk will probably appoint Jason Goumas, Republican candidate for 9th Ward alderman in the November election, to take Gallo's seat on the Council.

If such action is taken, the Republicans will have a majority of eight men on the Council, as opposed to four Democrats and one Liberal. The ratio before Gallo's election as alderman-at-large and Council president was six Republicans, five Democrats and one Liberal. Thus the Democratic voting power may be diminished by one man as a result of Gallo's ascendancy to the President's chair.

Carroll, whose term began Jan. 1, 1964 and was to continue until Dec. 31 of this year, resigned to accept a position with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Schenectady.

Last night's special meeting to accept his resignation and elect a successor to fill out his term of office was called earlier in the week by Mayor John J. Schwenk. A presiding officer was needed for the Sept. 7 meeting of the Council.

SAC Bombers Thrash Another Cong Base

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Another flight of B52 Strategic Air Command bombers pounded a suspected Viet Cong stronghold in South Viet Nam today, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The raid by the Guam-based eight-engine jets — the 18th reported in the Vietnamese war — was made in Quang Tin Province 320 miles northeast of the capital.

A U.S. Air Force pilot was presumed killed in the crash of an F4C Phantom in North Viet Nam, 35 miles north of Vinh. The aircraft failed to pull out a dive in a strike with three other Phantoms at a highway bridge. Heavy anti-aircraft fire was reported in the area.

A U.S. pilot downed over North Viet Nam three days ago was also officially listed as missing after a futile search and rescue operation.

In the ground war, a government force was reported to have killed 53 Viet Cong in a bloody battle in the swampy Mekong River delta but Vietnamese troops took heavy losses in a Communist attack against an outpost.

Twenty-four Communist guerrillas were reported captured Friday in the Mekong battle 75 miles southwest of Saigon in Vinh Binh Province, Vietnam.

ese and American casualties were termed light.

The multibattalion government operation was launched Thursday in the canals and swamps at the mouth of the Bassac River 25 miles west of the provincial capital of Phu Vinh.

Government troops made contact with the Viet Cong five times Friday, the spokesman said. In the heaviest clash, the Communists reportedly suffered 22 casualties.

In the other action, a Viet Cong force estimated at three companies attacked a government outpost early today 135 miles south of the capital. The attack was beaten off by regional forces, but the defenders suffered heavy losses, authorities said.

Two Viet Cong were killed and left behind in the assault in Bac Lieu Province 25 miles west of Vinh Loi. A company of troops defended the outpost.

World's Week Presented By The Associated Press

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the moment, the eyes of the world shifted from Viet Nam to Kashmir; full-scale war between India and Pakistan seemed imminent.

Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan have feuded for years over the tiny mountain state of Kashmir. A cease-fire line, hammered out 17 years ago by the United Nations, gave two-thirds of Kashmir to India, one-third to Pakistan. Border incidents have been common, and three weeks ago activity began to pick up.

Called Defensive

This week the Pakistan army

invaded the Indian-held part of Kashmir, their columns spearheaded with American-made Patton tanks and F-86 Sabre jets. This, said Pakistan, was "a defensive measure forced upon Pakistan by Indian bellicosity."

The Indians fought back with British Vampire jets, aging British Centurion tanks and American Sherman tanks. Pakistan quickly claimed penetrations of 6 to 8 miles into India, said it had "severely mauled" several Indian army brigades, captured 15 tanks and taken at least 150 prisoners of war.

At week's end appeals to both sides, by world governments and by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, had gone unheeded. Rumors were that India, crossing the border at another spot, might soon aim a column directly at the major Pakistan city of Lahore.

Morale Better

In Viet Nam, the American and South Vietnamese forces closed out August with one of the best records yet. Air attacks against the Communists, in both South and North Viet Nam, were at an all-time high. The Viet Cong sustained record losses, in one big encirclement at Chu Lai and in many minor engagements. The South Viet Nam army morale rose, defections dropped. The long-awaited monsoon-season offensive of the Viet Cong obviously had been crippled, if not crushed.

Maritime Peace

After 78 days, and at presidential prodding, ship officers unions made peace one by one with the industry, and at last the ships began to move. The strike, idling hundreds of freighters and cutting the luxury liners out of the lucrative summer tourist trade, cost losses of at least $150 million. The settlement brought 4-year, no-strike contracts, pay increases, and agreements on the key issues — job security, manning levels and automation.

In steel, the 10 major companies and the United Steelworkers union, representing 350,000 employees, came down to the Sept. 1 deadline with no agreement. Monday morning President Johnson had them in the White House and, with a bit of his famous arm twisting told them, "You fellows really get down to business." It was plain the President would tolerate no steel strike.

Like Captives

The President held the negotiators virtually prisoner in the White House until Friday when he announced in a national television and radio address that the negotiators "have reached essential agreement" on a new contract that would erase the threat of a strike.

Late Tuesday night, at a hastily-called conference in New York, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and the Norfolk & Western announced they had agreed to merge. They said they would bring in five other rail systems with them — Erie, Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson, Boston & Maine, Reading, and Central of New Jersey. The vast deal, if successful, would create a system of 26,000 miles, with annual revenues of $1.8 billion. It was complicated, and full of road blocks. Management stockholders of at least some of the proposed partners immediately raised obstacles. If it came off at all, the merger was years off.

11th Cabinet Post

With virtually no dissent, Congress completed action on creation of an 11th Cabinet post, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, giving new status to such problems as urban renewal, mass transportation and community planning. Meantime, the President continued the re-arrangement of his official family by appointing Lawrence Francis O'Brien as postmaster general. He succeeded John A. Gronouski, grandson of a Polish immigrant, who will become ambassador to Poland. O'Brien, 48, a Massachusetts public relations expert, had a prominent part in the election of John F. Kennedy as president. Kennedy brought him into the White House as a special assistant to lobby administration proposals through Congress. Johnson kept him on at that job.

Messages From Work

At his famed African hospital in Lambarene, Gabon, Dr. Albert Schweitzer lay ill of exhaustion, his condition "gradually deteriorating." The 90-year-old Nobel Prize winner, under treatment since Sunday, was receiving messages of encouragement from all over the world, including one from President Johnson.

For a time, it was reported that Nikita Khrushchev, 71, former premier of the Soviet Union, was seriously ill. Not so, said a daughter Friday. She said Khrushchev had been in a hospital last month for a routine medical checkup, was now in good health at his country home.

Quote of the Week

"It was hell, but it was worthwhile. My brother would have done the same thing for me, and I'd do it again." Don Dawson, returning after a futile 10-month trek through South Viet Nam jungles, seeking his brother, Army Lt. Daniel Dawson, missing since Nov. 6.

U.S. Sees Bigger Role for U.N. In India-Pakistan Cease-Fire

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. officials believe the United Nations will have to play a much larger peacekeeping role in Kashmir if and when fighting between India and Pakistan can be ended with a cease-fire.

These officials are deeply alarmed about the crisis between the two countries, both of which have close U.S. ties. Unless the dispute is stopped quickly, they fear it could develop into a full-scale war.

The United States is urgently supporting efforts by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to arrange an immediate cease-fire. Officials here hope India and Pakistan will give favorable replies this weekend.

If the cease-fire appeal fails, the Johnson administration will be faced with the question whether it should try to bring additional pressure beyond diplomatic persuasion to bear on the belligerents.

Both India and Pakistan have been large beneficiaries of U.S. aid.

Youth Rally Is Set Sept. 11 at Area Tabernacle

An inter-denominational youth rally will be held at the Athens Gospel Tabernacle, Athens, on Saturday, Sept. 11 from 10 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

The Tabernacle is on the Hudson River two miles north of Athens. The rally will open at 10 a. m. with an evangelistic service with the Rev. O. Phillips, and the Rev. Eric Forsberg, speaking. The song leader will be Terry Lane of Saugerties.

Other speakers during the day will be the Rev. Mr. Densmore, the Rev. Robert Bowring, and Wes Wales, regional director of the Youth for Christ. The Rev. Harvey Ellsworth is the Tabernacle director.

During the day there will be singing, musical talent, games and speed boat rides for all. Those attending will bring their own lunch and the beverages will be supplied. All youth groups, pastors, congregations and the general public may attend. The Rev. Mr. Phillips, of Shokan, is publicity chairman.

Woodstock Lutheran Lists Service Plans

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church, Woodstock will observe Holy Communion this Sunday at the 9:30 worship service.

Next Sunday the service will return to the regular hour of 11 a. m.

Religious Programs

The Kingston Area Council of Churches provides a daily Thought for the Day at 6 a. m. and 11 p. m. on radio station WKNY, given during the coming week, Monday through Friday, by the Rev. Arthur Oudemool, pastor of the Old Dutch Church.

If the cease-fire is agreed to, authorities here say the United States would be prepared to support creation of some kind of U.N. peacekeeping force in Kashmir, the scene of frequent Indian-Pakistani crises since the two countries came into existence 17 years ago. Both would like control of the disputed territory.

At present the United Nations, which has been involved in the Kashmir controversy from the beginning, has a 45-man observer team at the scene. Washington authorities think this is not large enough to be effective in dealing with outbreaks of violence, nor is it adequately equipped.

Presumably the United States would be prepared to provide helicopters and other transports for an expanded U.N. group to enable its members to get quickly to any point of trouble. Officials said the first job is to try to pull the two nations apart in Kashmir, if this can be done, then the United Nations might serve as an agency to keep them apart pending more permanent arrangements.

Already in Arguments

The United States already has been drawn into the diplomatic arguments swirling around the fighting.

Indian Ambassador B.K. Nehru protested to Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday against alleged Pakistani use of military equipment supplied by the United States.

1954 President Dwight D. Eisenhower assured India that arms supplied to Pakistan would not be used against India.

The U.S. assurance included a promise that if the arms were employed "in aggression" the United States would take appropriate action "both within and without the U.N. to thwart such aggression."

A parallel promise was made to Pakistan when the United States provided military equipment to India in 1962 after India was attacked by Red China.

Cite Complaints

U.S. officials said Pakistan has made general complaints that India was using U.S.-supplied equipment. They said they did not know that this was true. They have noted reports, however, that Pakistani operations against India in recent days included the employment of 48 U.S.-supplied Patton tanks.

Officials said that for the moment the question of the use of U.S. arms is secondary to the question of whether the fighting can be stopped. How long the United States can delay a response to the India protest if the cease-fire appeal fails, however, is not clear.

Basic U.S. policy for the past 17 years calls for steering a middle course between India and Pakistan on Kashmir. Officials said this is not satisfactory to either New Delhi or Karachi but defended it as the only policy which can adequately express U.S. interest in two countries with which it is friendly.

The three, all 18, are John Meiss, Turin; Gary Tonobolino, Adams Center; and Terry Lynch, Philadelphia.

They defeated 25 other county groups in the competition Friday at the New York State Exposition.

James Hemminger of Phelps, won the individual title in the showmanship-of-dairy-cattle. The 17-year-old represented Yates and Ontario counties. Stewart and Beryl Bird, 18 and 16 respectively, and William Frazier, 17, won the livestock-judging contest and will represent the state at the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, Kan., Oct. 14. Their team represented Allegany County.

Three teen-agers from Greenville will travel to Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 13, to compete in the poultry judging. They are Harry Ketcham, John Hull and Leland Turon.

Team honors in vegetable judging was won by a Livingston - Wyoming County team, comprised of Robert Robinson, Alan Raines and Lemar Garwood. They are to attend the National Junior Horticultural Association meeting at Cincinnati, Ohio, on Dec. 6.

Other categories and winners: Milk judging, won by a St. Lawrence County team of Larry Crowe, Dale Kinsley and Paul Steinburg. Field and forage crops judging, won by a Livingston-Wyoming County team of Walter Faryna, Eric Perry, and Keith Wolcott.

—Runnerup teams to participate in the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., Sept. 17-18 are:

—Dairy judging, Cortland; dairy-cattle judging, Orange-Rockland - Sullivan; milk judging, Schoharie; poultry judging, Orange-Rockland - Sullivan.

New York State will be represented at the Northeastern Poultry Products Council program at Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7-8, by a Livingston-Wyoming County team.

Police Continue Hunting Strangler Of Cheri Bivens

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—Police continued to search today for the strangler of 3-year-old Cheri Bivens.

The dark-haired, blue-eyed girl's nude body was found Thursday night near a pile of old tires in a field near her downtown home.

Dist. Atty. John R. Murray, the coroner, said Cheri died of strangulation. He discounted reports that the girl had been raped.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Patricia Bivens, told officials that her daughter was missed shortly after 9 p.m.

KNOWLEDGE IS ESSENTIAL

The seasons of the year run their course swiftly and no one knows that better than our young people who are back in the class room.

Many returned to school with a feeling of regret. It is only human nature to wish that summer vacation with all its many-sided attractions could continue forever. But, for all the labor-saving progress that has been made, we still live in a world in which work and knowledge are essentials. And the advance of science and technology have vastly increased the kind and amount of education that is needed if the young person is to have a successful and rewarding career as an adult. Little room is left for the uneducated and the half-educated. Those who lack at least a high school education face a tough road ahead.

Nowadays, stress is laid on physics, mathematics, the chemical arts and other of the sciences. The finished student, however must have a fair knowledge of this country's economic system and the system of representative government it supports, which together have protected the individual's liberty and made this nation great and powerful. Lack of understanding of the political and economic heritage by which we live is a most serious weakness in a world torn by conflicting and angry ideologies.

Let the student return to school with a will. And let his school properly prepare him for a constructive place in the world he will enter as an adult.

BAD DRIVING AHEAD

There are enough hazards in driving under the best of circumstances. We are now moving into that time of year when the hazards increase dramatically. There are two principal reasons for this.

One is that as the weather changes the conditions of driving tend to become worse. The other is that, with schools back in session, children are crossing the streets much more frequently than in summer.

In broad areas of the United States, autumn rains often make the road slick underwheel. Fallen leaves on that kind of surface add to the danger. The days are growing steadily shorter, too, so that more and more of our driving will be done in dim light. There is a rising premium on alertness.

The presence of more children at intersections — and, occasionally, darting out from between parked cars — heightens the need for care. The year's most hazardous driving time is coming. Good drivers will be aware of it, and will act accordingly.

REFLECTING ON LABOR DAY

There is no holiday in Viet Nam today. As we take our ease and spend this Labor Day in any number of different ways of our own choosing, we might pause to reflect on this and on the fuller meaning of the name we give this late-summer recess from our daily work.

It was a labor of minds that conceived the ideals on which this nation was predicated, and a labor of bodies — thousands of which perished in the struggle — that brought it into being.

It was a labor of the spirit and of the body that nourished the young nation, that made it grow great and that extended it over forests, plain, desert and mountain, 2,500 miles between the seas.

It is a labor of the highest dedication that has preserved it for nearly two centuries against all enemies, against all dangers foreign and domestic.

There has never been a holiday from this labor. There never will be.

To some it is galling to be told that our involvement in Viet Nam is a labor in defense of freedom. Our country is in no obvious peril from the Communists there and freedom is a meaningless thing to the peasant who knows only that his family is being slaughtered, his home and his village leveled, his crops destroyed.

The blood of innocents, not to speak of that of the soldiers fighting on both sides,

Global View

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Some 39 million West Germans will vote Sept. 19 for a new Chancellor and Bundestag (congress).

The elections are of international significance since the Bonn Federal Republic is today one of the strongest countries in Europe and a key NATO nation. They might well determine East-West relations and NATO policies in the foreseeable future.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard who is running for re-election as the candidate of the dominant Christian Democratic party (CDU) is widely regarded as the architect of Bonn's unprecedented economic recovery—20 years after West Germany lay in ruins. He believes firmly in free enterprise.

But Erhard's leading Socialist opponent, West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt, is hardly a die-hard Marxist. His Socialist party (SPD) has long since discarded the Marxist clichés to appeal to all segments of West German society.

There are only minor differences between Erhard and Brandt on economic or domestic issues. But they differ profoundly on foreign policy. To be sure, both candidates are appealing to the voters as "Atlanticists," supporters of a strong Atlantic alliance. Erhard and Brandt have made frequent visits to Washington to show that they have American backing.

However, in the view of NATO diplomats, Chancellor Erhard is less likely to be swayed by French President De Gaulle's anti-American policies than Brandt, Erhard, they believe, will continue to maintain the close ties with the United States that have prevailed since the Bonn Federal Republic was founded in 1949. But they have misgivings about Brandt's apparent vacillating policies.

The diplomatic corps in Bonn recently was startled by Brandt's sudden announcement that if he became chancellor he would negotiate with Russia for a German peace settlement. This was a complete reversal of his previous views.

Brandt also expressed interest in a non-aggression agreement between NATO and the Communists' Warsaw Pact organization. This proposal, made by Moscow on previous occasions, has been repeatedly rejected by the United States.

Brandt denied that direct Russian-German negotiations might lead to a "new Rapallo." In 1922, Germany signed a secret treaty at Rapallo with Lenin's struggling Bolshevik regime right under the noses of the victorious allies.

However, veteran diplomats have not forgotten that Khrushchev, shortly before he was deposed as Soviet premier, told a French delegation headed by Guy Mollet that sooner or later Germany will sign another Rapallo treaty.

In democratic countries the outcome of elections is rarely predictable and West Germany is no exception. The result is likely to depend on some four million first-time voters.

A majority of the new voters were not born until after 1939. They have no recollection of Hitler and feel no responsibility for his crimes. Their sole concern is with the future.

Most young Germans, especially students, favor a change. They respect Chancellor Erhard as an economic wizard. But they see him and the CDU as a relic of Germany's tragic past.

Nor are they excited by the prospect of Brandt becoming chancellor. They consider him primarily as a "me too" politician and not as a leader with fresh ideas.

There is no doubt that the CDU still retains the allegiance of the older generation of Germans and is likely to emerge as the victorious party in the election. But according to opinion polls the SPD is running neck-in-neck with the CDU. The other party in Bonn's present coalition government, the Free Democrats, is running a poor third.

Your Dental Health

Wind Instruments Helpful
In Straightening Teeth

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Since many teeth straightening problems are either caused by, or at least exaggerated by bad habits, why can't good habits be used to fight bad ones?

For instance, habitually placing the lower lip behind upper teeth and pushing hard, usually produces a protrusion and spacing of these teeth, commonly called "buck teeth." It also causes a tilting backward of lower teeth. This combination of malposed teeth makes it difficult to bring lips together comfortably, often causing young children to become mouth breathers.

Why not reverse this habit? Sit down and have a quiet talk with your little fellow, and explain that if he must suck his lip, why give the lower lip the whole party? Why not give the upper lip a chance? It's only fair. This reverse effect could return his teeth to their normal position, and by that time he'd possibly be old enough to develop some nondental habits instead.

Orthodontists often advocate some form of "counter pressure habits" in treatment of malposed teeth. One dentist advises use of musical instruments to counteract certain forms of orthodontic problems. If your young son has developed into an orthodontic type known as Class III (lower jaw and teeth stick out), he could take up clarinet or saxophone. If he's a Class II type (upper jaw more prominent and upper teeth stick out), he'd do better with trumpet, trombone or tuba. Other conditions might require piccolo, flute or oboe.

Parents with false teeth can get into the act too. It doesn't matter if they wear full dentures, they can still learn to play trumpet or tuba by wearing a special device, adjusted to their embouchure to hold their teeth in place.

Some of this is written with a twinkle, but it's true that wind instruments, selected wisely and in consultation with your orthodontist, can help in correcting or mitigating certain types of teeth-straightening problems.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

could seem too ghastly a price to pay for this ambiguous idea called "freedom."

But this nation is dedicated to the defense of that idea, and the harsh lessons of two World Wars have taught us that it is not something that can exist in serene isolation within our own borders. It can only be secured by involvement in the world at large.

We can draw no clear line between strictly national interest and defense of an idea that embraces all peoples, between that which benefits the United States alone and that which serves the world community.

We are engaged in a war with a foe who also takes strength from his own national pride and his own ideas of a universal order. But we believe they are ideas which could plunge the world into a new Dark Age of oppression of the mind and soul.

That is why the struggle is so unavoidable, so grinding, so stupendous in its implications.

And that is why there is no holiday in Viet Nam today.

Which Calls for Nerves of Steel

Washington News

WASHINGTON (NEA)—"Say this over and over to yourself: 'We are right!'"

The speaker was Karl Hess, chief speech writer for Barry Goldwater in the 1964 presidential campaign. He was talking here to the weekend convention of Young Americans for Freedom, the rising citadel of conservative youth.

His was the message the several hundred "YAF" delegates wanted to hear. It is the message most arch-conservatives of any age want to hear.

For there is about militant conservatism a remarkable self-containment, and a fierce instinct toward inbreeding. As with pat leftists on the other side, what they already believe is what they wish to be told.

A YAF convention is very much like any other gathering of the conservative clan. Tables overflow with books and tracts which comfort the delegates in their established conclusions. Buttons and bumper stickers proclaim their slogans:

Bomb Hanoi... Impeach Earl Warren... I'm for Robert Welch (Bible Society founder)... I am a Right-Wing Extremist... Drop It (the big bomb)... Let's Win in Viet Nam.

YAF DELEGATES appear to be great button-wearers, some sporting six and eight on their lapels. Mixed in with the slogans this time were many buttons favoring Ronald Reagan for the California governorship. William Buckley for the New York mayoralty. "Goldwater in '68" sprouted here and there.

The youngsters' circle of heroes does not seem to have widened perceptibly in recent months. Aside from Goldwater and Warren... I'm for Robert Welch (Bible Society founder)... I am a Right-Wing Extremist... Drop It (the big bomb)... Let's Win in Viet Nam.

He filed that out by saying that, except for such matters as the management of traffic, any control of the individual at all is fundamentally bad.

THE INDIVIDUALS assembled under the YAF banner were generally an earnest, somewhat intense, nicely dressed and clean-shaven lot (only two bearded badge-wearers could be spotted). Again and again, they spoke openly of the contrast between themselves and leftist civil rights and antiwar pickets. It gave them pride to hear Rusher call them the "West Point of conservatism," a group rich in talents sure to be useful later in the top echelons of the conservative movement.

They did not seem envious when he labeled the conservative-dominated Young Republican organization as the "last and best hope of rebuilding a meaningful Republican party" in the United States.

Their own place in the conservative sun is evidently secure enough. They want it to grow. They want to enlarge beyond their present claimed 25,000 membership scattered through some 400 chapters.

But their recruiting efforts do not call for any broadening of their horizons to encompass young Americans of even slightly diverging views. Their recruiting slogan might run something like this:

"We stand for pure conservatism. We know we are right. If you, too, want to be right, come and join us."

Karl Hess seemed closest to their fun-loving spirit when he branded the antiwar picket program as a "great lesson in faithfulness" and scoffed at the "dis-maying theory that we have to do some of these things (that the Democrats are doing), but do them better."

Hess may have touched the delegates' more serious inner core when he offered them this on individualism:

"To think you should tell someone else what to do is the first seed of insanity."

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The 54-month-old business boom got a new lease on life this week when steel industry labor negotiators agreed on a new contract.

The settlement meant that business can roll along without having to face an unsettling strike which would have closed down a vital industry.

And it probably will mean that the pace of production in the steel industry will slow down now that users who have been stockpiling supplies as a hedge against a strike can start using up their heavy inventories.

The settlement was announced Friday night by President Johnson, who had kept the negotiators under heavy pressure.

He called the settlement "a fair one... squarely within the limits set by the national wage-price guideposts which are designed to prevent the inflation which would damage our prosperity."

A few hours earlier, Johnson had sent to the negotiators administration suggestions aimed at compromising their differences and reaching a settlement.

The President moved the negotiators from the steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America from Pittsburgh to Washington, where he could keep a close eye on them.

He urged them to reach a settlement, saying that a strike would have tragic consequences on the nation's economy and war effort.

With bargaining dragging on, Johnson took a personal role in the situation on Thursday. He visited the negotiators in their meeting room in an office building adjacent to the White House.

He told them he would like to see a settlement by Labor Day, Monday.

Johnson cited statistics on how profits of the steel industry had increased last year and the first half of this year and on how well the steelworkers had fared.

He noted the costly effects of the 116-day steel strike of 1959 and said another strike could hurt the economy as much in a couple of months as a recession lasting nine months.

Johnson said he didn't want to twist the arms of the negotiators, but it was obvious he was putting the full powers of his office behind his efforts at persuasion.

When the President visited the negotiators there were reports that their differences had been narrowed somewhat since arriving from Pittsburgh but still were substantial.

Productions Booms
Meanwhile, steel production continued to boom. Output last week totaled 2,528,000 tons, up 2,000 tons from the previous week. For the year to date, production was 92,401,000 tons against 80,688,000 at the same time last year.

One of the most startling railroad merger proposals in history made big news.

The Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western Railroads — two giants among eastern railroads — announced that their directors had approved a merger.

They offered to take in five small railroads — Erie Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson, Boston & Maine, Reading, and Central of New Jersey.

The combination would result in a system with 26,460 miles of track, annual revenues of $1.82 billion and assets of $5.9 billion. This would closely parallel the system that would be created by the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads.

Likely to Take Longer
The heads of the C&O and the B&W said they hoped for Interstate Commerce Commission approval of their proposal within two years. However, with opposition quickly developing, it seemed likely that more time would be required.

The electric equipment price-fixing conspiracy involving companies in 1960 had new reverberations in a U.S. District Court in New York.

General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp. were fined a total of $16,873,203. This brought to nearly $400 million the fines assessed against offending companies.

The 78-day shipping strike that had idled 100 vessels in Atlantic and Gulf ports came to an end. The last of two maritime unions — the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the American Radio Association — reached agreement with the American Merchant Marine Institute, representing the ship-owners.

The Commerce Department reported that new factory orders and shipments rose to records in July after lagging for several months.

Others, a key indicator of future business activity, advanced 2 percent to $41,632,000,000 on April 6, 1965, some 160 years ago, and did fine up to a couple of years ago. A. T. Clearwater, historian of Kingston at the time had many remarks in this booklet such as: "I have said, and say here that the air of the Catskills begets a spirit of freedom and independence."

And he even went back to "Kingston always has been a city of heated political controversy, never more so than in the days of the followers of Governor Clinton and Alexander Hamilton."

I do not know what Kingston will be like in another five years, but the village was incorporated on April 6, 1805, some 160 years ago, and did fine up to a couple of years ago. A. T. Suggest Letting Sociologists Walk In Police Test

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — City Police Commissioner William H. Schneider says a university sociologist should have conducted an experiment before recommending that most American policemen be unarmed while on duty.

And, Schneider said Friday, he would be willing to have Gerhard J. Falk, a sociologist at the State University at Buffalo, conduct the experiment here.

"But," said Schneider, "I don't think we should risk the lives of any policemen by having them conduct such an experiment."

"I am willing to conduct such an experiment by having Prof. Falk, and some people whom he would select, to patrol in police uniforms in the night hours for a period of time to determine the feasibility of his suggestion," Schneider added.

Falk said Thursday at a sociologists convention in Chicago that "most officers never handle dangerous persons and therefore do not need to carry a gun."

He said disarming most policemen would lessen public antagonism toward police.

Schneider noted that educating policemen to carry out their duties unarmed might require that "we also educate the burglars, muggers, holdup men and robbers that they should not carry weapons either because it would not be fair play for just one side to be armed."

Three Are Hurt In Local Mishap

Three persons were hurt in a two-car mishap that occurred about 4 p. m. Friday afternoon at the Ten Broeck Avenue and Grand Street intersection.

Suffering minor injuries and treated by their family physician were Mrs. Edwina Christiana, 31, of 76 Derrenbacher Street and her two daughters, Laurie, 4 and Linda, 3.

A police report said the car Mrs. Christiana was driving was struck by a vehicle owned and operated by George Fluegel, 33 of Red Hook.

Fluegel's car apparently suffered brake failure when nearing a stop sign on Grand Street. Police said the brakes took hold as the Christiana car was entering from Ten Broeck Avenue.

Cantine Elects 4 New Directors Outside Family

The Martin Cantine Co., Saugerties, as part of its forward planning, broke a precedent of 80 years at its recent stockholders meeting when it elected four outside directors.

Heretofore, only members of the family or those closely associated with the Cantine family have served as directors.

The new directors are Harry C. Culshaw, William S. Hatten, William E. Hough and Edward A. Minogue.

Culshaw of Princeton, New Jersey, was until his recent retirement, executive vice president of James Talcott Inc., a position he held for the past several years. Prior to that he was vice president and senior lending officer of the First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Culshaw is a life member of the Robert Morris Associates. He serves on the board of directors of several important companies and is a faculty member of both the Graduate School at Rutgers University and the Graduate School at Columbia University.

Hatten of Evanston, Illinois, is president, chief executive officer and director of Clayton Mark & Company, Evanston, Illinois, and Chairman of the Board of Ken-Ray Brass Products Inc., Vermont, Illinois. Prior to taking over the presidency of Clayton Mark & Co., Hatten was for many years in management consulting. Hatten is a member of the National Association of Manufacturers, American Ordinance Association, American Institute of Management and Valve Manufacturers Association.

Hough of New York City, is a sales and marketing consultant, having spent almost fifty years in the sales field. He was formerly director of Marketing and president of P. O. Moore, Inc., and prior to that was Sales Manager of York Safe & Lock.

Minogue of Albany, is presently vice president-consultant of National Commercial Bank & Trust Company in Albany, where he has served for the last fifteen years. Prior to that he was with the First National City Bank in New York. Minogue has devoted his entire career to commercial banking and financial management.

Robert L. Cantine was elected chairman and J. G. Crost was elected president of this producer of coated papers and deep vacuum metallized film and papers.

Robert Loring Packard, the son of Vernon L. Packard of Rochester, and Paul Ormand Deignan of Chappaqua, were arrested Friday after holding a deputy sheriff hostage for about an hour.

The deputy caught them trying to burgle a safe in this community east of San Francisco.

Sheriff's Capt. Walter Treweek said Deignan and Packard were armed with the deputy's pistol and an Army M16 rifle. No shots were fired and no one was hurt.

Treweek said the two surrendered after he told them the store was surrounded by police.

Mrs. Packard told the Associated Press Friday night that they knew of the arrest but were not sure whether they would help their son.

Deignan and Packard, both 23, told California authorities they were on a mountain climbing and surfing junket throughout the West and had run out of money.

10 More Counties Put on Drought List in State

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has declared farmers in 10 more drought-plagued counties in New York State eligible for the federal surplus feed grain program, bringing to 23 the number of counties approved.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., Friday announced the counties as Albany, Broome, Chemung, Delaware, Ontario, Putnam, Schoharie, Schoharie, Tioga and Westchester.

Republican Gov. Rockefeller had requested on Aug. 29, in a telegram to the department that they be added to the program.

Eligible farmers may buy surplus feed grains for dairy cattle, sheep and goats at not less than 75 per cent of the government support price.

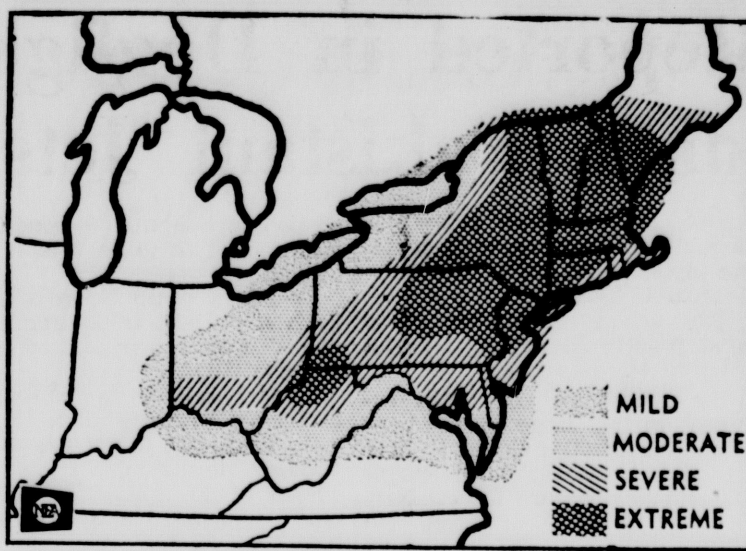

Farmers in 13 other counties were ruled eligible on Aug. 25 for the surplus feed.

Sheriff's Car Hit

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County sheriff's department racket squad was put out of action temporarily Friday night by a two-car crash which injured four of the squad's seven members.

Officers said an unmarked car containing the four was turning left when it was hit by another vehicle.

Set. Harry Sparks, head of the squad, was nearby. He arrested the other driver.

250 Pickers Not Enough, Says Apple President

NEW PALTZ, N.Y. (AP) — The president of an apple growers association says a federal decision to permit the importation of 250 West Indian apple pickers "Won't make much of a dent" in the mid-Hudson Valley apple orchards.

Arthur W. Kurtz, president of the Mid-Ulster Growers Cooperative Inc. said Friday that he "appreciates" the decision to help save the $20 million crop but ripe apples may still fall and rot for lack of pickers.

The U.S. Labor Department Thursday granted the importation of workers from the British Islands after growers appealed to Washington to waive recent restrictions on the employment of migrant labor.

Kurtz said migrant workers from the southern states did not show up this year because they had found permanent jobs in industry along the East Coast. The State Labor Department said it would try to recruit workers through unemployment insurance offices.

A meeting of the Kingston City Democratic Men's Club will be held 8 p. m. Thursday at Ray's Riverside Restaurant on 86 Ferry Street. All club members, members of the City Committee, and Democratic candidates for city and county offices are asked to attend.

Will Continue Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. campaign to increase trade with Singapore and Malaysia has not been affected by separation of the two countries. The Commerce Department says a trade mission to Malaysia and Singapore between Oct. 21 and Nov. 23 will be carried out as scheduled.

Accord Man Faces Weapon's Charge

State Police investigated a complaint Friday night that a man was in possession of a loaded shotgun in the vicinity of Route 213 at High Falls.

State Police Sergeant Edward Whalen and Troopers Craig Bremer and John Kohland investigated and arrested Attilio Dimanno, 49, of Box 177A, Accord, on a public intoxication charge. Dimanno was taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Scarpatti, Town of Marbletown, and the case was adjourned.

Trooper Robert Mackey said a loaded 12-gauge shotgun was found in Dimanno's car. Mackey said Dimanno faces action on a weapons charge.

No Losses Reported in Dogfight Between Indian, Pakistani Jets

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Pakistani tanks, under a cover of jet planes, attacked in southwest Kashmir today and were hit by Indian planes, the Indian Defense Ministry reported.

An official Pakistani spokesman in Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital, said 40 Indian jet fighters were engaged in a dogfight with Pakistani jets which scrambled to meet them after the Indians invaded Pakistani air space.

The Pakistani spokesman said the Indian Gnat and Hunter jets broke off the fight "after a short, sharp engagement." He reported all Pakistani aircraft returned safely and no known losses inflicted on the Indian planes.

Had No Details

Indian spokesmen said they had no details of the air attack on the Pakistani tanks or how the battle was going.

It appeared from the battle report that neither side was paying any attention to a cease-fire appeal by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

The aerial encounter came amid reports India would reject the appeal.

The attack on the tanks occurred in the same area where India reported Friday it had shot down two U.S.-built jets of the Pakistani air force.

New Delhi promptly protested in Washington against Pakistan's use of the weapons, sent to Pakistan under a U.S. military aid program.

Appeal No Good

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was reported today to have found Thant's cease-fire appeal unacceptable.

Widely circulated reports in New Delhi said the Indian government was insisting that any cease-fire would have to label Pakistan an aggressor and provide for Pakistani withdrawal of guerrillas from the Indian-held section of Kashmir — conditions almost certain to be rejected by Pakistan.

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan says India is the aggressor and disavows any control over the guerrillas.

Shastri said in a nationwide broadcast Friday night:

"A cease-fire is not peace. We cannot simply go from one cease-fire to another and wait until Pakistan chooses to start hostilities again."

In the Pakistani capital of Rawalpindi, the Kashmir "revolutionary council" appealed to Thant to "help withdraw foreign forces from Kashmir so that peace is restored."

The 18-year-old dispute over Kashmir erupted again in Aug. 5 with fighting on both sides of the U.N.-established cease-fire line.

According to India, Pakistani elements are about six miles into Indian Kashmir and Indian forces are in Pakistani Kashmir at three points.

Radio Sale Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communication Commission has approved the sale of radio station WLFH in Little Falls, N.Y., to Leonard F. Auerbach of WLFH Inc. for $61,000.

The approval of the sale by Carmen H. Gaines was granted Friday.

Asks Delegates To Be Ready On Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg asked delegates to the U.N. Security Council to stand by for a possible meeting today to ask India and Pakistan for a cease-fire in Kashmir.

Goldberg, the council president for September, could not reach all of its 11 members Friday but the majority indicated they favor a meeting today, a spokesman said.

Informants said U.N. Secretary-General U Thant wanted a resolution to strengthen the cease-fire appeal he sent Wednesday to India and Pakistan.

Thant ordered publication today of a recent confidential report by Australian Lt. Gen. Robert H. Nimmo, chief of the U.N. military observer group in India and Pakistan, which checks on compliance with a 1949 cease-fire agreement for the disputed border area.

As described by persons who read it, the document said Nimmo indicated the trouble began last month when armed men, not in uniform, crossed from the Pakistan side into the Indian sector of Kashmir.

Nimmo also reported that India and Pakistan had shelled each other's sectors with artillery, and that both sides still occupied areas seized in each other's zones.

Nimmo's report was prepared before Pakistani regulars crossed the cease-fire line Wednesday.

According to Nimmo, on Aug. 24 "armed elements" from Pakistan were still occupying Indian outposts seized north of Mandrin in the punch sector of Indian Kashmir.

The report also said Indian army troops had been occupying Pakistan positions in the Cargil area since Aug. 15 and in the Tangdai-Nauseri (Tibbaw) area since Aug. 24.

Thant recently sent the confidential report to India, Pakistan and Security Council members.

Says He'll Accept Rightist Bloc for Greek Elections

ATHENS (AP) — Former Premier George Papandreu opened the way for solution of Greece's eight-week political crisis today by announcing he would accept a rightist government to conduct elections.

He made a statement to newsmen at his home after meeting with leaders of his Center Union Party.

Papandreu said: "We accept the formation of a government from the National Radical Union under the premiership of Mr. Panayiotis Canelopoulos to conduct elections within the constitutional limits of 45 days."

Canelopoulos, leader of the rightist National Radical Union party (ERE), had told a crown council that such a solution would satisfy his party.

Papandreu's announcement came while the king was meeting with caretaker Premier Elias Tsirimokos at the royal palace.

The crisis began nearly eight weeks ago when Constantine forced Papandreu out of the premiership in a dispute over the armed forces.

State Highways Crowded for Labor Day Travel

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Warm, pleasant weather and Labor Day weekend lured thousands of New York State motorists to the highways today, with a great number of them expected to die in traffic accidents.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted sunny skies and temperatures in the 70s and mid-80s throughout the state for the final long summer weekend.

State and local officials have cautioned drivers to be especially careful during the holiday, which began officially at 6 p. m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

During that period, the National Safety Council predicts that between 500 and 600 Americans will die in highway accidents, plus many others in boating and swimming mishaps.

On Labor Day weekend 1964, 26 persons lost their lives on New York State highways.

At Lake George, where holiday weekends normally attract thousands of youthful fun-seekers, officials reported that the Adirondack resort was crowded but under control.

DeLong Ruby Is Slated to Arrive In Gotham Today

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The priceless DeLong ruby, ransomed for $25,000 after weeks of secret negotiations, was scheduled to be returned to New York today.

The 100-carat, blood-red gem, was recovered Thursday in a Sunning State Parkway.

The jewel, placed in a West Palm Beach bank vault, was to be turned over to Dr. Joseph W. Chamberlain, assistant director of the museum.

Chamberlain flew to Florida Friday but arrived after the vault had been locked.

The time lock was set to open this morning.

Elaborate instructions relating to the dropping of the ransom in a toilet tank in Miami and the recovery of the gem 70 miles away climaxed a month of negotiations.

The gem was stolen from the American Museum of Natural History in New York last Oct. 29 along with the Star of India sapphire and 22 other valuable jewels.

West Palm Beach millionaire John D. MacArthur paid the $25,000 ransom, saying, "I have bought a stolen gem...and I'm going to donate it to its owners."

A spokesman for the group which negotiated the gem's return said the FBI had cooperated "100 per cent." The FBI would not comment.

Three Miami Beach men were convicted of the theft and given light prison sentences after they helped recover the Star of India and other gems. Only the DeLong ruby remained missing.

Chamberlain said he planned to be back in New York with the gem this afternoon.

Rioting Continues

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Religious rioting continued in the western Indian city of Poona for the fourth day today after two persons were killed, scores injured and hundreds arrested in outbreaks Friday.

Police reported four arson incidents today, including an attempt to burn a police outpost. Police said they arrested 40 persons.

Police arrested 1,938 persons Friday after battling mobs of looting Hindus with tear gas and bullets in a score of outbreaks.

Steel Settlement

Friday, lingering for about half an hour where the negotiators could see him from their negotiating rooms and remember that he was championing the bit to go to his Texas ranch as soon as they reached agreement.

He made it clear he wouldn't leave without it.

The agreement was reached within two hours after Johnson instructed Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor to lay the administration's compromise suggestions on the bargaining table at 3:15 p. m.

The two sides were reported at stalemate with four cents separating their positions when Johnson moved for the first time with specific suggestions for an agreement.

Johnson's suggestions, said the sources, acted as "a key to a locked room."

Britain's Magna Carta Arrives in Washington

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under pressure from the barons of his realm 750 years ago, King John of England signed a document, the Magna Carta, limiting what he could demand of the barons and what they could exact from their men.

A rare original copy of its last major revision, issued 10 years later, was flown here from Britain Friday for display later this month. The occasion is a World Conference on Peace through Law, starting Sept. 12.

The original and its later revisions laid the foundation of the Anglo-Saxon system of individual rights and liberties, from which both the British and American systems have developed.

The Magna Carta — Great Charter and a dozen other documents, some historic and some recent, will be included in a display to continue through Oct. 31 at the National Archives. They will be shown for a time alongside the U.S. Declaration of Independence and Constitution when those originals are returned to home base from the World's Fair in New York.

The 1225 Magna Carta, a revised version of the original signed by King John at Runnymede in 1215, was signed by John's successor, King Henry III. He noted in it that it was issued of the king's own free will and spontaneous will.

own letter of resignation to the Council. He said that the office "has meant much to me" and that he had felt "deep pleasure" in serving the Council.

A motion to accept his resignation and to elect a successor was passed unanimously. Aldermen of both parties registered high praises for Carroll's service as second in command of the local government.

City Clerk Walter S. Foster was named to preside over the meeting until a new president was elected. Foster had Deputy Clerk Eleanor M. Bruhn call the roll for a voice balloting.

Schwartz, who was expected to become majority leader if Machione had been elected, was first to vote and voted for Gallo. Schwartz is not a candidate for re-election.

Two for Machione

Next on the roster were John J. Naccarato (R), 3rd Ward who voted for Machione and Donald P. Tucker, (R) 4th Ward who cast the only vote for Schwartz.

Raymond Armater, (R) 11th Ward submitted the only other pro-Machione ballot. Alderman Robert Schantz, (R) 2nd Ward, William Sinsbaugh, (R) 5th Ward and William G. Davis, (L) 13th Ward, were absent from the meeting.

All five Democratic aldermen from Wards 6 through 10 voted for Gallo. They included Leonard Van Dyke, Edward Norton, Peter J. Mancuso, Gallo, and Minority Leader James F. Howard.

6-3 for Gallo

By the time it was Machione's turn to ballot, the vote was already 6-3 favor of Gallo, with two votes for Machione and one for Schwartz.

Machione rose, thanked those who voted for him and moved that Gallo's election be accepted unanimously. The motion passed. Armater, Tucker and Naccarato all changed their votes to favor Gallo and make the election complete.

Gallo, who is currently serving his first term on the Council and is a candidate for re-election, stated that he was "deeply moved" by the unanimous decision of the Council.

He added, "I know Joe Carroll will be greatly missed. He has served the City of Kingston well. I will continue to work for the people of the Ninth Ward and for all the people in Kingston all of the time, as I have done the last one-and-a-half years. I will try to work with Mayor Schwenk with one goal in mind, that is, for the best interests of all Kingston."

Lifetime Resident

He extended his "personal thanks to Machione, the minority leader and all the members of the Council." He said he was "deeply moved that the Republicans have expressed confidence in me."

Gallo lives on 124 Andrew Street is a lifetime resident of Kingston and a graduate of St. Joseph's School and Kingston High School. He attended Siena College in Loudonville, N. Y., and is presently associated with the McDermott Food Brokers Inc. of Albany, serving Ulster County.

His wife, Nancy, is a nurse at the Kingston City Hospital. He has two children, Shayne, 6 and Thomas, 5.

Carroll, who has been with Metropolitan since April, 1963 and has been promoted to a managerial position with the company, Mohawk District, told the council members he was thankful for the praise they had bestowed on him.

Said the outgoing president, "It is a great honor to have members of both parties get up and praise you for what you have tried to do for the people of Kingston. I have always tried to do the best I possibly could for all the people in the city."

"I am very happy to have Robert Gallo named as my successor. He has been very conscientious and I have enjoyed serving with him. I am confident that he will continue to work for the best interest of all of Kingston."

"His transition from the 9th miss it."

U. S. Curbs Monetary Gold Loss in August

By RICHARD L. GRAVES AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first month in a year the United States curbed its monetary gold loss during August. The stoppage of the gold outflow is timely.

At the end of this month the United States goes into a critical session of the International Monetary Fund. The fund discussions are expected to be pointed toward revamping of the system to settle international accounts.

By curbing its gold outflow through its voluntary program to reduce the balance of payments deficit, the United States has strengthened its hand in negotiations with the fund.

Federal Reserve statistics show that the U.S. monetary gold stock stayed at $13,858 billion from the end of July through the end of August. That figure does not include what is in the so-called gold equalization fund to meet immediate demands for exchange of foreign-held dollars into gold. The fund usually holds about $100 million in gold.

So far in 1965 foreign governments have converted into gold about $1.5 billion of the dollars they held.

The voluntary program to curb the balance of payments deficit began in February.

Because U.S. dollars, in effect, are a major international currency, the deficit-curbing program tended to reduce the supply of funds — called liquidity — to finance international transactions. In turn, that tended to force foreign holders of dollars to retain their holdings, rather than convert them into gold, because of trade financing demands.

The U.S. government contends the dollar is as good as gold because it guarantees to exchange the currency for gold at $35 an ounce.

The dollar's authority in international finance was challenged early this year by French President Charles de Gaulle, France, which has a current balance of payments surplus, began converting large holdings of dollars into gold.

As a virtually direct result of that, the United States instituted its program to curb its balance of payments deficit. The voluntary program mainly was aimed at banks and industry who make overseas investments.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson wrapped up a pair of domestic victories before heading for a Labor Day weekend at his Texas ranch.

But the triumphs — one in the steel industry and the other in a boost for Washington home rule — were marred by concern over a foreign dispute.

Drought Is Hard On Peasants in Land of Haiti

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

LES CAYES, Haiti (AP) — The first corn crop in a year is ripening on the plain around Les Cayes but hundreds of peasant families, caught in one of Haiti's worst droughts, still go two or three days at a stretch without food.

Last summer Hurricane Cleo rained through this port city and shot north across Haiti's southern peninsula. More than 100 were killed and many buildings damaged. The storm knocked down thousands of coconut palms and banana trees.

Before the Haitian peasant could replant and harvest on his tiny plot, a drought descended on the Caribbean. It lasted in southern Haiti until early last month.

As the weeks passed, peasants drifted into Les Cayes looking for food. Some camped in a field behind Sacred Heart Catholic church; others on the sidewalks near the central market plaza. For a while this spring, one or two a week were found dead every morning.

The army collected the hungry peasants in trucks last month and sent them back to the countryside. Those who returned to town were shipped to Ile a Vache, an island a few miles offshore.

Drought has tragic effects on Haiti's three to four million peasants. With average yearly incomes of $80, many live outside Haiti's money economy. If their crops fail on their one, and scarce, plots, they are without food, except for the manioc which flourishes in the country.

Money is particularly short in Les Cayes. The sugar mill on the edge of town owes $500,000 in wages and in payments to peasants who sold cane to the mill during the recent harvest.

The U.S. government offered to make available $2 million worth of surplus food, to be distributed by Church World Service and CARE. The two agencies asked President Francois Duvalier's government to pay for transporting the food in Haiti, and were refused. The transportation bill would have been between $10,000 and $20,000.

More Sugar Imports

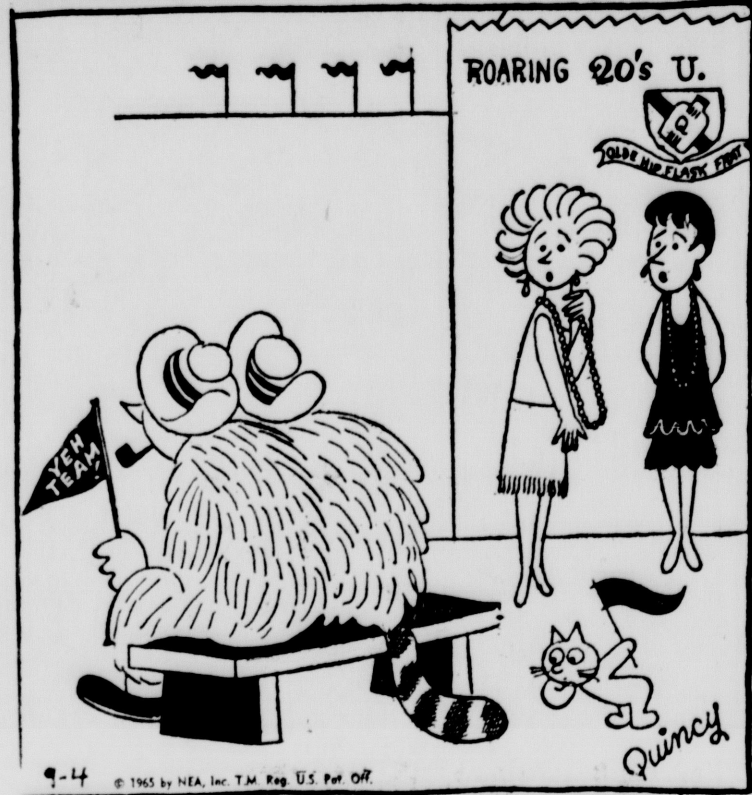

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has announced additional allocations of 103,819 tons of sugar to 14 Western Hemisphere countries for export to this country this year under its sugar control program.

BRIDGE

Points in Play Shown by Hand

By JACOBY & SON

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. The hands in Edgar Kaplan's fine book, "Winning Contract Bridge Complete," are likely to illustrate several points in bidding and play.

Thus East does not approve at all of South's bid of four hearts. He points out that North's three no-trump bid guarantees stoppers in all suits and leads a second spade.

Everyone follows and now East can actually defeat the contract. He must start by cashing his ace of clubs and continue by leading a third spade. This will give South a choice of losing plays. If South ruffs high, West will eventually collect a trick with the jack of trumps. If South ruffs with the 10, West will make his jack of trumps right away.

Why must East take his ace of clubs before leading out the third spade? The reason is that if he doesn't take it he won't get it. South has a seven of clubs that he is going to have to lose sometime or other. "Eventually, why not now?" South discards his losing club on East's good spade. East can play a third spade or anything else that strikes his fancy but he is not going to beat the hand because dummy now is also able to ruff spades and there will be no way for West to make his jack.

Bridge to Be Closed

The Rochester Town Board has announced that the Millhook Bridge on the Mettacobahs Road will be officially closed to traffic starting Sept. 7 due to construction of the new bridge at this site. The detour route will be posted.

Ranch Type Has Room Radiating From Hallway

By JACK McEENEY

A splendid example of an informal home—one in which you and your family can live completely at ease—is "The Rhodes" by Associated Architects.

The house is ranch type. The floor plan suggests a flagstone walk leading from driveway to covered front porch, where you find the front door. To keep traffic in regular lanes, there is a center hall from which bedrooms, bath, kitchen and living room radiate. And for privacy, the trio of bedrooms is nicely separated from the rest of the house.

Those are rather good bedrooms, as you'll note in the plan, ranging in size from about 12 by 16 feet to 9½ by 10½ feet. The rooms have large areas of window space and are well equipped with closets. The master bedroom has a pair of separate closets, something many a family desires.

To put available space to best uses, the architects have allotted just what is needed for the bath. While compact, this bath has sufficient room for all fixtures, even the luxury of a built-in tub. The central location of the bath makes it accessible to bedrooms and other sections of the house.

The kitchen is compact, too, yet there is plenty of room for the working tools of the homemaker—appliances, counter space and storage cabinets. Because of the planned arrangement of kitchen equipment, the housewife will find she need not do so much walking in her working hours.

You've probably noticed that the living and dining rooms are put together in the shape of an "L". The result is an atmosphere of spaciousness which provides a maximum of light and ventilation. The broad expanse of windows at both sides gives a dramatic effect.

To round out the living room, there is a fireplace, with a built-in bookcase at one side.

The cubage with basement is

Doremus Seeking GOP Nomination For Councilman

J. Mervin Doremus, of Woodstock, announced Friday that he is to seek the Republican nomination for councilman in that township.

A retired employee of the New York Telephone Company, he is a past president of the Woodstock Rotary Club, a former assistant fire chief, and is a member of the County Fire Advisory Board. He is a member of the Woodstock Methodist Church and serves as a trustee on the church board.

Until his recent retirement, he had been with the New York Telephone Company for 40 years, having served in the Woodstock area since 1931. He had been active in area boy scouting during past years.

The Republican caucus in the township is scheduled for Sept. 20. Arthur Smith, of Willow, is also reported interested in the nomination.

William West, an incumbent councilman in the township, seeks the nomination for supervisor, a post now held by Attorney Abram F. Molyneux.

Lindsay Going Out of State To Coax Votes

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. John V. Lindsay, Republican-Liberal candidate for mayor, today flies to the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania in an unprecedented political move: Seeking votes outside the state.

No one can remember when a mayoral candidate went out of state to garner votes, although it has been common practice for city candidates to visit the Catskill mountain resorts.

But Lindsay, after visiting several resorts in the Poconos, will make a speech at Unity House, a resort operated by the AFL-CIO International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

The union has 170,000 members in New York's garment district. Some 1,200 of them will be at the resort, along with ILGWU President David Dubinsky. Dubinsky also is vice-chairman of the Liberal Party, which is backing Lindsay.

Queens District Attorney Frank D. O'Connor, candidate for city council president on the Democratic mayoralty ticket headed by City Controller Abraham D. Beame, said Friday many more police cars should be added—instead of extra policemen—to combat crime.

Opposed to this are both Lindsay and Paul R. Scervane, city council president, another candidate for the mayoralty nomination on the Democratic ticket. Another Democratic contender for mayor, Rep. William F. Ryan, said Friday there are "vast quantities" of drinkable water deep beneath Manhattan, but that the administration, headed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, has not tried to find the locations.

Car Thief Sought

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Barbara Chaffee drove to the City Hall and took an examination for a job as typist in the detective division.

Informed by a telephone call that she passed, she explained a transportation problem had developed. While taking the exam, somebody stole her car parked across the street from the police station.

Car Is Squeezed Off Road by Truck

No one was reported injured after a truck squeezed a smaller vehicle off the road on Clinton Avenue near Center Street Friday about 5:48 p. m.

A police report stated that a truck driven by Robert Ciosi, 27 of Saugerties and owned by Smith Avenue Storage, 149 Clinton Avenue was stopped in the traffic lane and was trying to back into a driveway on Clinton Avenue.

At the same time a vehicle owned and operated by Claire Merrihew, 27, also of Saugerties was circling around the truck and did not have enough room to pass through. The Merrihew car then scraped into the truck and was forced off the road, police said.

Outside Part Of Religious Building Done

NAZARETH, Israel (AP)—The outside structure of the Basilica of the Annunciation, built over the Grotto of the Annunciation, is complete. Services may be held there at Christmas, although it will take several years to complete and decorate the inside.

Solel Boneh, an Israel building company, constructed it for the Franciscan order. The cost so far, more than a million dollars, has come largely from Roman Catholics abroad.

The design, by Giovanni Muzio of Milan, is traditional but contains elements of Crusader style. The dome rises 180 feet.

Two churches are built one above the other, each with a seating capacity of 3,000. The Nazareth Church of the Annunciation which stood at the same site had seating and standing room for 1,500.

Stinking War, Says UAW Top Man About Viet

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP)—"We are defending a military dictatorship in a stinking war we shouldn't be involved in," says a United Auto Workers union official about U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

"President Johnson has done a tremendous job in domestic policy but he's fallen on his face in foreign policy," Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers union, said Friday.

He spoke at a meeting here of UAW local officials from around the state. It was part of a week-long training conference.

Mazey said the current leader of South Viet Nam, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, was "the latest dictator in a long series of punk dictators."

Two Persons Hurt On Albany Avenue

Two persons were slightly injured Friday evening when two cars collided at the intersection of Albany and Roosevelt avenues about 7:55 p. m.

Hurt were William H. Young of Elka Park, N. Y. and Helen Roosa of 6 Belvedere Street.

According to police reports, a car driven by Elson L. Roosa, 47, of 6 Belvedere Street was attempting a left turn from Albany Avenue to Roosevelt when it was hit by a vehicle operated by Camilla Young, 57, of Elka Park.

Patrolman Booth Pendell was in charge.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers' New England Division, which operates the Cape Cod Canal, calls it one of its "most worthwhile projects."

Doctor Shows Are Bringing Problem For Color Play

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Television's big switch to color this season brings with it certain problems. For instance: How to photograph a doctor show.

"Dr. Kildare" is debuting Sept. 13 in color, and MGM and NBC are wary about how the more vivid aspects of the hospital series will appear on the home screen.

A scene involving the victim of burns was shot over because the makeup appeared just a bit too realistic in the rushes. "Ben Casey," which is struggling along in its fifth season with black-and-white, has no such problems.

Color is not the only thing new about "Dr. Kildare." After four successful years, the hour series has been split into half-hours for presentation on Monday and Tuesday nights.

"I'm really curious to learn how the show will be received," said the young doc, Richard Chamberlain. "I cannot imagine what is going to happen. There is no precedent, no way to predict."

The change follows the pattern of the multilingual "Peyton Place," but "Dr. Kildare" differs in being an established show that has turned serial. Except that you're not supposed to mention the word "serial."

"It's not really one," explained Chamberlain. "The concept is not so much a continuing story as it is a three-parter or more. For instance, we are doing a six-parter on kidney disease, in which only a certain number of dying persons can be treated on a new machine. The drama comes out of which ones are chosen."

"The original concept was for each half-hour to be a whole entity in itself. That hasn't always been possible, but we have tried to avoid having a cliff-hanger at the end of each show."

Why We Say--

MEANS STOREHOUSE: The key to this expression is that the German word "lager" means storehouse. The beer is so named because barrels of lager beer were placed in a storehouse to age.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Sept. 4, the 247th day of 1965. There are 118 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1886, Apache Indians under Chief Geronimo surrendered to Gen. Nelson Miles at Skeleton Canyon, Ariz. The surrender ended the last important Indian disturbance in the West.

On this date in 1813, Andrew Jackson and Thomas H. Benton were injured in a brawl in the streets of Nashville, Tenn. In 1870, Empress Eugenie hid from a Paris mob in the home ing by a committee headed by Mrs. Douglas Snow.

Any parents interested in information about this co-operative nursery school may contact Mrs. Robert Davidson. Registration is limited to 20 children age two years and nine months to kindergarten.

of an American dentist, Thomas Evans. Disguised in Mrs. Evans' clothes, the empress escaped to England.

In 1917, the American Expeditionary Force suffered its first casualty in France.

In 1953, Maj. Gen. William Dean was released after more than 37 months in North Korean prisons.

Also in 1953, Florence Chadwick of California set a new speed record in swimming the English Channel from England to France.

Ten years ago—A Yugoslav economic delegation ended a conference in Moscow at which the Soviet Union promised important economic aid.

Five years ago—Hurricane Donna, one of the most destructive in U.S. Weather Bureau records, was spotted in the Caribbean.

One year ago—The South Viet Nam premier, Mai Gen. Nguyen Khanh, promised a return to civilian rule within two months.

Lomontville

LOMONTVILLE—Mrs. Raymond Terwilliger gave a birthday party for her husband on Aug. 25. His five married daughters with their husbands and 19 grandchildren attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Terwilliger had their nephew Robert Petaro of Massapequa, L. I., as a guest the last two weeks in August. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Petaro were visitors also.

Mrs. John Terwilliger spent two weeks with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Robertson in Pine Hill.

Saugerties Residents Are Betrothed; Plans Being Made for Wedding in Summer of 1966

CAROLYN ANN HALPERT

(Photo Workshop)

Mr. and Mrs. David Halpert of 215 Washington Avenue, Saugerties, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Carolyn Ann, to Donald Anthony Mormile, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mormile, Barclay Heights, Saugerties.

Miss Halpert is a graduate of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., and is teaching in the Middletown Elementary School System, Middletown, Conn.

Mr. Mormile attended Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., prior to entering the Navy and serving in the submarine service. Upon completion of his five years in the Navy this week, Mr. Mormile will resume his studies at Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y., this fall.

The wedding will take place next summer.

Ahavath Israel

At the Friday Evening Religious Services held at Ahavath Israel, a reading of the liturgy was conducted by Eli Camhi, the Bar Mitzvah celebrant of this week. On Saturday morning the Bar Mitzvah ceremony was conducted by Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman, and the liturgy was chanted by Cantor Larry Jacobs. The Bar Mitzvah celebrant read a chapter in the Torah and in the Prophets.

Wednesday, Sept. 8, the Sisterhood will hold its regular monthly meeting. The program for this meeting will be a panel discussion on the subject "The Vanishing Jew." The discussants will be Rabbi Schechtman, Rabbi Echoron of Temple Emanuel, Kave Harding, Muriel Weinstein and Robert Strugatz. Miriam Pinsly will be the moderator.

For more than a century, visitors have reported hearing weird music floating across Yellow-stone Lake.

HOSPITAL VISITORS

The number of private rooms in every hospital has been greatly decreased, partly because of the shortage of nurses, partly because they are too costly for most people and partly because there always seems to be a need for more hospital beds than exist. The vast majority of hospital patients nowadays find themselves in semi-private rooms or larger wards.

It is important, therefore, for visitors to these rooms to show consideration not only for their own friends, but for the other patients as well. If smoking is allowed at all, it is essential to ask the others nearby if it will bother them if you smoke. (And please, cigarettes only! Cigars and pipe smoke can actually cause nausea in many people.) Your friend himself may not object to your smoking, but it may cause the man in the next bed to have a coughing attack which could be the worst thing for him.

Voices must naturally be kept low, not only for privacy's sake, but in order not to disturb the other sick people who badly need their rest.

If you are going to the snack bar or restaurant to bring a dish of ice cream or a candy bar to your friend (if he is permitted to have it), it is only thoughtful to ask the other person in a semi-private room if you can bring him anything at the same time. This would not be necessary in a larger ward, unless one of the patients actually requested you to do an errand for him.

If there is a television set in the room—and this applies between patients as well as visitor and patient—do not turn it on without asking the other's permission and consulting him as to his choice of program. Unless he shows real enthusiasm, keep the volume very low.

If another patient in the room wishes to rest, draw the curtains between the beds, to give him as much privacy and quiet as possible. On the other hand, if he and your friend have become friendly include him in the conversation and your visit will be doubly appreciated.

Smith Graduate Engaged to Orthodontist; Karen Kriendler and Dr. Louis K. Adler

KAREN GALE KRIENDLER

(Bradford Bachrach)

Mr. and Mrs. I. Robert Kriendler of New York and Westhampton Beach, L. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter Karen Gale, to Dr. Louis K. Adler, son of Mrs. Milton Adler of New York and Kingston, N. Y., and the late Milton Adler.

Miss Kriendler was graduated from the Brearley School and magna cum laude from Smith College. She was a Fulbright Scholar in the History of Art at the University of Rome for the year 1962-63. She made her debut in 1958 at the Debutante Cotillion and Christmas Ball and the International Debutante Ball. She is employed by the planning and architectural firm, Charles Luckman Associates, in its New York office, and is a member of the Smith Club of New York and the Architectural League of New York. Miss Kriendler's father is the president of the "21 Club."

Dr. Adler attended Ethical Culture School, Horace Mann, and Cornell University. He graduated cum laude from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 1959 and received his Orthodontic training at the Columbia University School of Dental and Oral Surgery. He holds the rank of major in the U. S. Army Dental Corps, having served for three years in Paris attached to the American Hospital. He is on the Orthodontic Staff of Mount Sinai Hospital and practices in New York City and Mount Kisco.

Dr. Adler's parents were owners of Adler's Outfitters to the Young on John Street, this city.

The wedding will take place on December 5th in Temple Emanuel-EL.

Home Extension Service News

If you are selecting clothes for pre-school or kindergarten children, consider factors that are important to the children as well as the aspects of clothing that are important to mothers. Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent, points out in the following article:

The pre-school child enjoys being the center of attention. Since he has learned that adults will remark about new clothing, he usually likes any new garment. He wants comfortable clothing in which he feels free and easy. He prefers bright primary colors, especially red. He likes soft textures and decorations, especially tiny ones. He also likes something which is "like" Daddy's or Mommy's or the hero of the moment.

Some things that seem important to the adult have no importance to the pre-school child. The child has no interest at all in the price of the garment, how long it will last, nor ease of care.

The young child has no concept of the becomingness and so is not interested in this aspect which mothers often stress.

Nor is the pre-school child aware of what is appropriate for his age, for the time of day, or the occasion. If a little girl's favorite dress is her party dress, she may beg to put it on every day.

Unlike the older child, the pre-school child usually does not care whether his clothing is like that of the other children. The opinion of those his own age concerning his clothing is not important to him.

The pre-school child is completely indifferent as to variety in clothing. He would be most happy if he could wear his favorite outfit every day.

Every child derives a certain sense of security from old familiar garments; a child going alone to kindergarten or to a friend's home the first time may find it easier if he wears one old garment.

The older child may rebel at wearing clothing handed down, but the pre-school child does not object to hand-me-downs if he likes the garment itself. He may be proud and pleased to wear garments from an older child because it shows how "big" he is getting.

Lastly, the pre-school child is not at all concerned with the cleanliness or neatness of his clothes or his person. Splashing through puddles, smearing finger paints (or any substitute), exploring and handling anything new are far more important to him than any traces left on clothes. Therefore in selecting clothes for the pre-school child, choose only fabrics and garments known to wash satisfactorily; the more no-iron washables, the better.

Dear Abby . . .

Knotty Problem!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very fine 36-year-old bachelor. He has high moral standards and no bad habits. He is nice-looking, honest, unselfish, good-natured, hardworking, neat and clean. His only fault is that he never wears a necktie. He has nice clothes, but he always wears a sport shirt and leaves the top button unbuttoned. I have been wanting to ask him to wear a tie, but I can't bring myself to do it. I am 34 and have other gentlemen friends, but none with so many fine qualities. He has hinted about marriage, and would make an ideal husband. I'd like to invite him to our church supper, but I'm afraid he would show up without a tie and I'd be embarrassed. What would YOU do?

RURAL ROUTE NO. 1

DEAR ABBY: I'd invite this nice-looking, honest, unselfish, good-natured, hardworking, neat and clean gentleman to the church supper. Then I'd buy him a necktie and ask him please to wear it. Once you get the tie around his neck, go to work on getting him to tie the knot. And I don't mean in the tie, either.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your advice on something that has me betwixt and between. I am going with a wonderful girl and I want to marry her. But she has a few relatives who are a little off.

SHERMAN OAKS

DEAR OAKS: Who hasn't? Go ahead and marry her.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has always taught me that it isn't "nice" for a girl to call boys on the phone, or to go to a boy's house unless you have been invited to a planned party there. Well I have a girl friend who does just that. I know because I have been with her when she's called boys and gone to their houses when we happen to be in the neighborhood.

Is my mother living in the past? Would you call that running after a boy? My mother doesn't know I've done this. But I only do this when I'm with this girl friend because she doesn't have nerve enough to do it alone. If it's wrong, why is it wrong, Abby? Most girls would never see a boy outside of school if they didn't.

MAKE UP A NAME

DEAR MAKE: No. Honey, your mother is not "living in the past." It's "wrong" to call boys and to go to their homes, uninvited, because it is too forward. Some boys might enjoy having girls run after them, but when a boy wants a girl to be "his girl," he chooses one who waits to be called and called on.

DEAR ABBY: So often in your column a husband complains that his wife is "cold." I say, if that is true, it's her husband's fault. It is so easy to warm up a wife. All you have to do is pay her an honest compliment about herself or her cooking once in a while. Sneak up behind her when she's doing her work and kiss the back of her neck. Put your arm around her in public occasionally. A woman wants others to know that her husband feels some affection for her. Just keep telling her you love her.

If you follow the above instructions, they will work like a doctor's prescription. Take it from a man whose wife is —

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

When you buy unlined pinch-pleat draperies . . . never rip out the pinch-pleats and reline them. Here's what to do:

Use bed sheets, tinted or white, for the lining, but do not sew them to the new curtains anywhere under any circumstances.

Instead, leave those beautiful new curtains right there on the traverse rod, hanging in all their glory, and literally duplicate them, pinch-pleats, length, width and all . . . with sheets.

Then buy another set of drapery pins and put them in the pleats of the "sheet" curtains. Then proceed to hang these sheet curtains right behind the beautiful drapes . . . the seams of each set of curtains facing each other and the right side of the sheet pinch-pleats toward the window.

This really works.

The best part of this procedure is that when the lining gets soiled, (and it always does first), take only the lining down and wash it.

Have the other curtains dry cleaned if you wish (and we all know that dry cleaning for unlined drapes, is far cheaper than for lined ones).

One need not buy extra rods at all this way, only the curtain hooks, as the little tab of the traverse rod will easily hold the two sets of curtains.

When hanging the separate lining to the original curtain, work the folds of the lining (or sheet) so that they conform with those of the real curtain itself. Soon they will "learn" as you open and close your drapes . . . and the two sets will stay together just as if they were made at the same time.

Now, ask me how I know this? Mine have been like this for nearly seven years. They were planned, made and hung by a decorator and it certainly wasn't cheap!

The next time I will do it myself.

J.E.P.

Ladies, this woman has a fabulous idea whether you make your own curtains or have them made.

The linings of many draperies are made from a different fabric than the drapery itself. Sometimes the lining will shrink from moisture in the air, leaving the drapery puckered.

And, wasn't J.E.P. brilliant to think of how much cheaper it is to have unlined drapes dry-cleaned? Besides, just as she says, linings do usually wear out first.

Bless you, J.E.P.

Letter of Sweetness

Dear Heloise:

I am past seventy now. For the past five years (since retirement) I have been cooking breakfast for my "Queen" of forty years marriage. She is thrilled at some of my tasty waffles and pancakes.

I add vanilla to the batter, and at times I substitute juice from maraschino cherries, concentrated orange juice or other fruit.

juices for part of the liquid. It is surprising what a taste change can be had.

I do not know if this is a novel stunt, but I am submitting it, anyway, hoping that others will try it.

Oscar Diehl

Tell your "Queen" to kiss her "King" for us.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I have something to spot-paint . . . instead of dirtying my paint brush I just use a small piece of foam rubber. Dab it in the paint and then apply it.

Mary Copeland.

One can get a small piece of foam rubber by taking a knife and slicing a thin piece off the end of a square of your sponge.

It sure beats cleaning a paint brush, and thank you a million times, dear Mary.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband seems to wear out his work and dress pants at hip pocket where the corner of his wallet lies. The rest of the pants are good.

I have found that a piece of iron-on mending tape can easily be pressed on the inside of the pocket where the wear shows first.

This mending material is quite durable, and it is not as easy for a wallet to wear through. A pair of pants lasts much longer.

Grid Fortunes on Upswing at Kingston High School

Eight Veterans Set for Action; QB Big Problem

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

There's an air of optimism around Dietz Stadium these days. Kingston High football coach Bill Hurley isn't saying much, but there's little doubt that if he can find a quarterback and another good end from among 75 candidates, the eight opponents on the KHS schedule might be in for some tough afternoons and nights.

Eight starters from the 1964 club, which produced only a 2-6 record, are being put through their paces. Most of them are linemen and it means that defensively, the Maroon gridders will be second to none.

End Brian Bach, tackle Brooke Jenkins, guards Jack Schatzel and Abe VanSteenburgh and center Bill Buddenhagen have returned. Gerard Boggs, who did a bang up job at tackle, has been shifted to guard.

No Experience at QB
Halfback Gene Rios, capable of running all the way at any time, and Lou Perry, a hard hitting halfback have also reported. However, because there are no experienced quarterbacks around, Perry has been working at that position.

Perry played some quarterback in '64, but his lack of height handicapped him. However, at halfback, he was a hard runner. Newcomers Greg Rios, Ron Valle, Don Cashdollar and Bruce Gilligan are the other hopefuls at the signal calling and they have to produce if Perry is to be switched.

The other problem is to find a second starting end. Bach is a good pass catcher and also does the punting. Roger Olson, Tim Bowens and Bill Halterman are battling for starting berths at the flank.

In addition to the returning starters, Hurley has guard Dan Fiore, tackle Gene Smith, fullback Eli Bach and halfback Bill Dugan, all letter winners, back for action.

Candidates who have shown well in the early drills are tackles Tom Primo and Bruce Kidd, center Russ Supples, fullbacks Paul Koeppen and Don Oakley and halfbacks Ken Scherer and Dick Nelson.

Hurley and assistants Ron Cole and Floyd McCormick have listed 10 tentative starters for the opener on Sept. 18 against Suffern at Dietz Stadium.

They include Bach at end, Jenkins and Primo at tackle, Schatzel and Boggs at guard and Buddenhagen at center. The backfield includes Perry at quarterback, Rios and Dugan at halfbacks and Bach at fullback. "We still need another starting end and some of the other positions might be changed between now and the opener," Hurley said.

Kingston will scrimmage Arlington on Sept. 13 and more on the team's practices will be known after that session.

Well - Balanced League
Even with a marked improvement at KHS, the DUSO league figures to be well - balanced with a slight edge to Middletown.

In addition to the four conference games, the locals will meet Suffern, New Rochelle, Albany and Vincennes in non-league encounters.

A capsule comment:
STRENGTH: A strong line, both on defense and offense. Good depth at guard and center. Good balance in the starting backfield.

WEAKNESS: At one end position, where a starter is needed and at tackle, where there is no depth behind the starters. Inexperience at quarterback is the other problem.

OFFENSE: Winged T and Slot T with variations.

Tarkenton Paces Vikings, 57-17

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don't try to tell Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin there's a better quarterback in the professional football than the Vikings' rambling scrambler, Fran Tarkenton.

He's liable to show you the film of Friday night's 57-17 romp against Dallas.

Tarkenton threw two touchdown passes and piloted a Minnesota attack that gained 210 yards through the air and 198 on the ground. The Vikings' defense pitched in with six interceptions.

St. Louis intercepted four Rudy Bukich passes and whipped Chicago 25-3 in Friday night's exhibition game. Lyle Bakken booted three field goals as the Cardinals won their first pre-season game after two losses and a tie. Chicago lost its second in four starts.

New York's new quarterback, Earl Morrall, starts against his former teammates, the Detroit Lions, in the first game of tonight's NFL doubleheader at Cleveland. The defending champion Browns face Western Division contender Green Bay in the second game, with 80,000 fans expected.

Baltimore plays Washington at Norfolk, Va., and Pittsburgh meets San Francisco at Providence, R.I. in other NFL tests today. Philadelphia is at Los Angeles Sunday.

In the American League, Denver meets Oakland at Sacramento, Calif. Boston is at Kansas City and San Diego plays Houston at Little Rock, in night games.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

A Golf Magazine survey just released indicates that the sport is thriving throughout the world, but the U.S. facilities and number of golfers far outpace the other 49 countries where the game is growing in popularity.

In the United States there are more than 8,000 regulation courses with 300 new ones being built every year. Even so, reports the magazine, facilities fall far short of the demand of the estimated 7,000,000 U.S. golfers.

Big Upsurge in Japan

Japan is the fastest growing golf country. In 1946, Japan had only 17 courses, today there are 300 with 50 more in the planning stage and the number of golfers is put at 2 million. Only 10 per cent of the courses are open to the public.

Third, behind the U. S. and Japan, in the number of players is England with 1.5 million playing on more than 1,000 courses. The largest vacuum in the sport is behind the Iron Curtain where the Communists have branded the game as "bourgeois." However, golf is experiencing a revival in some of the satellite nations, particularly Czechoslovakia where there are about 400 to 500 hardies, no pros, who defy the Hammer and Sickle for the brassies and spoon.

How About a Girl Caddy

Costs and customs vary from country to country. In Scotland, you can golf for two bob (about 50 cents) but you must be a director or president of a company to belong to an exclusive club in Tokyo where the fees run to $15,000 a year.

You can get a husky housewife to carry your clubs in Belgium or a smiling girl caddy in Japan. If you play on one of Mayagaya's 19 private courses, you may wind up playing with the king. In East Africa local rules permit the lifting from a hippo foot print and placement of the ball—without penalty—on a spot nearer the hole.

Golf is rapidly replacing tennis and swimming as Australia's most popular sport. Down Under about one of every 15 adults plays golf regularly and there is one course for every 515 golfers. Comparable figures for the United States show that one out of every 20 adults is a golfer and there is only one course to every 1,425 golfers. Australian courses boast unusual attractions such as kangaroos and lyre birds, who speak like humans and often scatter golfers by crying "Fore."

Some Interesting Statistics:
The magazine's mail survey among secretaries of leading golf associations around the world also revealed these interesting items:

1) Golf has not expanded in Central Europe as might have been expected. The people consider it a game for the privileged class and lavish their attention on horse racing and tennis.

2) Economics have hampered the spread of golf in South America. Brazil has only 22 courses and some 3,000 players; Mexico has 48 courses, none public; Peru prides itself on four electric golf cars.

3) Nationalist China has only two courses but 1,000 players. 4) Israel's first course was built five years ago at Caesarea. Its 600 players are expected to grow into several thousand in the next few years.

A Few Short Takes

A golfer winning the championship at Dutchess Golf and Country Club has to prove his worth over 108 holes—36-hole qualifying and 72 holes in medal play. No chess champion gets crowned here. George Hughes says he's not counting on that trip to Scotland in the Old Smuggler Hole-in-One Sweepstakes but would be happy to take it. Gene Sarazen agrees with plans to toughen up the Augusta National for the 1966 Masters. Unless some radical changes are made this once vaunted layout it will be duck soup for modern long hitters, the Squire thinks. Are you "topping" the ball too much? If you are, you're coming out of your swing too fast. Your bodyweight isn't swinging to your left side soon enough as you move into your downswing. Make a conscious effort to shift your weight over to the left side as the first movement of the downswing. In short, grind down that left heel. No charge for the lesson.

Snyder's Wins Hilltop Title

Snyder's Soft Water Service finished the Hilltop Mixed Summer league with a 42-18 record to capture laurels.

Alpine Restaurant and Team No. 12 tied for second at 35-25 with Alpine winning the playoff for runner-up spot.

Other teams were Economy Sales, 33½-26½; Johnny's Drive-In, 32½-27½; Hudson Valley Explosives, 29-31; Bill Beckert Trucking, 29-31; Stuyvesant Barber Shop, 28-32; Anchorage, 26-34; Team No. 2, 26-34; Ulster Aquarium, 22-34; Team No. 7, 22-34.

Bob Parker (175) and Jean Conti (160) led in averages. Top triples were Jim Petersen 621 and Jean Conti 534. Pat Jordan had a 279 solo and Jean Conti a 217 single.

Snyder's slammed 884-2555 net and 1000-2903 gross.

2 Championship Races Slated at Ontario Track

Ontario Speedway in Olive Bridge is girding for a heavy Labor Day weekend of championship racing. The finest stock car drivers in the area will invade the track for the big weekend.

Sunday night the 100-lap National Championship Oilzium Motor Oil Trophy sedan race will be contested in two 50-lap segments. More than 40 top drivers are expected for this one which starts at 8 p. m. Labor Day night, the modified sportsman cars vie for a qualifying spot in the $20,000 Langhorne (Pa.) Race over the 150-lap route in three 50-lap segments. Warmups are set at 5 p. m., time trials at 6 p. m. and the first 50-lapper at 8 p. m.

Lefebvre Leads LA To 3-0 Win

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookie Jim Lefebvre powered the Los Angeles Dodgers for the second consecutive game Friday night, driving in two runs and scoring the third in a 3-0 victory over Houston.

The triumph kept Los Angeles in first place, one game ahead of Cincinnati and two in front of San Francisco and Milwaukee.

Just the night before, Lefebvre lashed two singles and a double and drove in four runs as the Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh 7-1.

Lefebvre got the Dodgers started against the Astros in the second inning, singling across Ron Fairly, who walked and was sacrificed to second.

That was the only run of the game until the ninth. Then, with Lou Johnson aboard on a force play, Lefebvre drilled a triple to right-center field for one run and scored another on Wes Parker's squeeze bunt.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati crushed Philadelphia 16-7, Chicago edged San Francisco 5-4, Milwaukee nipped Pittsburgh 4-3 and New York beat St. Louis 6-3.

Late Explosion
Cincinnati and Philadelphia battled to a 6-6 tie through six innings, but the Reds put the game away with three runs in the seventh and seven more in the eighth.

Jack Baldschun's bases-loaded walk to John Edwards broke the deadlock, and Tommy Helms followed with a two-run single. Edwards doubled across two runs in the eighth while Pete Rose knocked in a pair with his fourth hit, a triple.

Billy Williams powered the Cubs past San Francisco, hitting his 26th homer in the fourth inning and lashing a bases-loaded triple in the fifth. Pitcher Bob Bolin hit a two-run homer for the Giants, but Bill Fauer hung on for his fifth triumph against three defeats.

Throwing errors by right fielder Roberto Clemente, after Mack Jones' line drive, and first baseman Donn Clemenon, on Ed Mathews' grounder, gave Milwaukee two eighth-inning runs and a victory over the Pirates.

Pittsburgh had taken a 3-2 lead with two runs in the fourth on singles by Willie Stargell, Clemenon and Bill Mazeroski, and Del Crandall's grounder.

The Kansas City Athletics have beaten the Minnesota Twins to the punch.

The Twins took another step toward a champagne celebration Friday night by whipping Chicago 6-4 and increasing their American League lead over the White Sox to 7½ games but the A's got there first when owner Charles Finley uncorked his long-awaited "Cellar-braytion."

The occasion was a 4-1, 1-0 doubleheader sweep at Los Angeles that lifted the A's past Boston and out of the American League cellar for the first time since April.

As the players trotted into the dressing room after the game, the champagne began to flow and Finley toasted his players: "Congratulations, on making this our happiest night of the year."

The New York Yankees knocked Boston to the bottom of the league by walloping the Red Sox 9-0. Baltimore defeated Cleveland 3-0 and Detroit clubbed Washington 10-2. Tony Oliva and Don Mincher got the job done for the Twins. Oliva singled home two runs in the first inning, Mincher hit a two-run homer in the third and Oliva wrapped up the scoring with another two-run single in the sixth. John Romano and Ken Berry homered for the White Sox.

Wyatt Saved Both
John Wyatt preserved both A's victories, sealing the champagne party when he took over for Lew Krausse in the eighth inning of the nightcap and put down a mild Angels' threat. Kansas City scored in the second inning on a single by Tom Reynolds and Bill Bryan's double.

Wyatt also completed a six-hit job in the opener, following Dick Joyce and Tom Aker to the mound. Ed Charles gave the A's the runs they needed with a homer and a run-producing bunt single.

Al Downing shackled the Red Sox on five hits four of the infield variety — while the Yankees tagged Bill Monbouquette with his 17th loss against eight victories. Horace Clarke, just up from Toledo, spiced a seven-run New York explosion in the sixth inning with a pair of singles.

The Orioles capitalized on the wildness of Indians' rookie Steve Hargan, making the most of three walks and a wild pitch for four first inning runs. Brooks Robinson singled in one run, another crossed on the wild pitch and two more came home on Dick Brown's single. Wally Bunker got the victory, his first since July 18.

Pro Charts
BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
New York

RECEIVERS - Lots of speed with Bake Turner, Don Maynard. Maynard can be erratic on pass patterns, but explodes for the long bomb. Turner's an underrated threat. Not much behind them, and the quality drops off at tight end, where Gene Heeter, vet Dee Mackey share duty. Heeter has not lived up to potential. RATING - good.

QUARTERBACKS - None higher priced - that's a cinch. Despite protestations that Mike Taliaferro starts as No. 1, you can bet that the load will fall on knee-plagued Joe Namath, maybe John Huarte. Haven't heard a single scout fault Namath's talent. RATING - good.

RUNNING BACKS - Matt Snell looks as if he's become a tremendous fullback, adept in every aspect. That still leaves a half-back problem. Bill Mathis blocks well, but runs only inside. The shift to rookie quarterback Bob Schweikert to set back is progressing slowly. RATING - fair-to-good.

DEFENSIVE BACKS - Recoveries from leg operations hold the Philbin, Verlon Biggs at the ends. For insurance, LeVerne Torczon will stick around. Would help if they'd had rookies like Biggs for tackle spots. Paul Rochester, Gordie Holz are incumbents. Big but not too mobile. Jim Harris is a hope for future. RATING - fair.

LINEBACKERS - In pretty good shape, like Wahoo McDaniel's middle. He's down to 225 and it shows in improved pass coverage. No problems at corners with old hand Larry Grantham, an original Titan, and young Ralph Baker. Bob Rowley got a taste of fire last year and the rookie contingent is led by Skip Hoover. RATING - good.

DEFENSIVE BACKS - Recoveries from leg operations hold the key. Clyde Washington looks like he's made it back O.K. to man right corner. Marshall Starks on opposite side is question mark. The safety spots are well protected by Dainard Paulson (strong side) and Bill Baird. Among the kids, tab Jim Hudson. RATING - fair.

SUMMARY - Joe Namath's job of justifying his $400,000 investment would be a lot easier if Jets were more solid club. They need help mostly up front, in form of class interior linemen. A running back is a must, plus corner halfbacks. It'll be an in-and-out season for the young club. PREDICTION - third place.

Empire's Billy Wins Feature
MONTICELLO, N. Y. - Empire's Billy won last night's featured fourth race at Monticello Raceway, a $3,500 invitational trot. Al Burton was in the sulky to drive the four-year-old stallion to a neck victory in 2:06.1.

Owned by Martin and Estelle Cherry of Wynnewood, Pa., Empire's Billy was raced in the three hole as Art Thorne set all the early pace with Penny's Fair Lady. An early speed duel between Penny's Fair Lady and Speedwell did not materialize when the latter went off stride before the start.

Burton moved his son of Empire Hanover - Neda Giers out to challenge approaching the three quarter pole and he was at the leader before reaching the final turn. In the stretch, Empire's Billy assumed command and appeared to be going away. However, Thorne had Penny's Fair Lady hanging on in bull-dog fashion but could not gain back the neck advantage.

She ultimately had to settle for second with the show stop going to Argo Can, Harold Story driving.

In posting his fourth win of the season, Empire's Billy returned $11.20, 6.40 and 5.20 across the board.

The 6 and 3 daily double paid $71.80 when driver Carl Dobkowski reined his first winner in 27 starts to take the first behind Quick Sal. Then pilot Bob Fesh also found the Might M winner's circle for the first time in the second with Chief Hawk to complete the double.

The evening's twin double at Monticello returned $1,955.40. Winning combination was 2-8-2-3. There were 29 live tickets. The perfecta paid $59.60. Winning combination was 2-1.

A crowd of 6,568 was on hand to wager $409,900.

Many Ton Tennis Stars in Farewell

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) - This is Auld Lang Syne for some old familiar faces in the National Tennis Championships at the West Side Tennis Club - Nicola Pietrangeli, Rafael Osuna, Manuel Santana and possibly Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle and Dennis Ralston.

The 32-year-old Pietrangeli, for 10 years one of Italy's best, probably will turn pro after this tournament, finding that the amateur circuit no longer offers the glamor and fun it once did.

Pro offers have been made also to Stolle, Australia's No. 2 ace behind Emerson, and Santana, the Spanish clay court whiz who battered U.S. Davis Cup hopes in Barcelona recently.

Stolle says he is interested and will listen to propositions after the Davis Cup Challenge Round in December.

"This is definitely my last year," Osuna said. "I am sure it is also Santana's last year." Osuna has a marketing job in Caracas, Venezuela.

Emerson, bidding for his third U.S. title, has repeatedly hinted that he may quit the amateur tour to devote more attention to his home life and his job, with the same tobacco company which employs Santana.

Ralston, hurt by criticism of his fall-down in the recent interzone Davis Cup final in Spain, has indicated he, too, is contemplating semi-retirement.

"I don't want tennis to be my life," he said.

"If all these guys step out, it will really open things up," said Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., a member of the U.S. Cup team.

But Froehling and the others must contend with them at least one more time in these championships, the 50th played on the West Side Club courts.

Emerson, the top-heavy favorite, makes his debut today against Eduardo Zuleta of Ecuador. Santana, No. 4, faces Don Fontana of Canada.

Stolle, seeded second, opened his campaign with a 9-7, 6-2, 7-5 victory over Ed Newman of San Antonio, Tex. Ralston, No. 3, crushed Jim Hobson, a University of Southern California student from Fullerton, Calif., 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Pietrangeli, unseeded, had to rally for a triumph over Mark Cox of Britain, 9-7, 6-2, 7-5. Osuna, seeded sixth, beat Brenton Higgins of Australia, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5.

South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, No. 8, ousted Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Maria Bueno, defending champion in the women's division, crushed Mrs. Anne Bedard of Canada 6-2, 6-0. Her chief rival, Margaret Smith of Australia, doesn't play until Sunday.

Three Veterans Set at Arlington
Only three players - Luvall Lovejoy, Mike White and Carl Halliday - have reported to Arlington High school coach Frank King as he preps his griders through their practice sessions. Arlington hosts Newburgh Free Academy in its opener on Sept. 18.

Lovejoy, an All-DCSL selection last year, is a feared runner. However, he has to have some help if the Admirals are to defend their championship. They tied with Wappingers Falls last year.

Terry Horton and Robert Hohowski are leading candidates for the quarterback job. Sixty-four boys have been attending the practice sessions.

After the Immigration and Naturalization Service moved from Ellis Island, the only full-time resident of the island was a Doberman pinscher watchdog.

Husband Arrives For Funeral of Strangled Wife

DETROIT (AP) — A wealthy nuclear chemist from Hong Kong who for four years wished his estranged wife would "grow up and we'd start a family" missed the court arraignment of her accused strangler by scant hours.

"I've just come here to attend the funeral. That's all," Jung K. Lee, 40, said after flying to Detroit from New York Friday.

His wife, blonde, pretty Edna Lee, 32, was a Wayne State University student studying for a doctorate in English. She was found strangled with a nylon stocking in her apartment bathtub Wednesday. She had been beaten on the face, police said. Victor Lewis Fassero, 36, a utility company clerk who police said had dated Mrs. Lee for some time, was charged with first-degree murder. He stood mute at his arraignment. A plea of innocent was entered and Fassero, a divorced man, was held without bond for examination Sept. 21.

"I don't know any of her friends here," Lee said at his hotel when asked if he knew Fassero. "I wanted her to live her own life the way she wanted it."

He and Mrs. Lee were separated in 1961, three years after their marriage. A question of whether to have children, "among other reasons," caused the separation, he said.

The University of Kansas Scientist said he and Mrs. Lee had frequent telephone conversations following their separation.

"I just thought, well, maybe someday she'd grow up and we'd start a family. Everybody's somewhat imperfect," he said.

Lee's first knowledge of the strangling came on a subway in New York City Thursday.

"Somebody had left a newspaper on a bench, and that's how I found out," he said. "I saw her picture and said 'What gives?' Then I saw the headline."

Lee said his mother and six brothers in Hong Kong have holdings in real estate and steel and paint factories.

Lee met his wife while she was a graduate student and teaching assistant at the University of Kansas. A first marriage for her ended in divorce.

Detective inspector Hiram Phipps said she and Fassero had argued during the time they were dating. Phipps said Fassero was charged, after having been released as a suspect earlier, because of what Phipps termed "new evidence" gained through a woman friend of the defendant.

Tornado Strikes Shopping Area In Wichita, Kan.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A tornado struck during a heavy rainstorm Friday night, heavily damaging a northeast Wichita shopping center and a number of exclusive homes. At least 18 persons were hospitalized, none believed in serious condition.

Hardest hit was the Prairie Village Shopping Center in a neighborhood of homes priced upward of $25,000. Display windows were shattered and merchandise was scattered. Only four of the 20 shops were open at the time the twister struck, 9 p.m.

The funnel formed and hit so quickly it escaped detection on the Weather Bureau radar screen, forecasters said. Thunderstorms and showers were widespread throughout Kansas, southeast Nebraska and west-central Missouri during the night.

A girl was swept away in a swollen suburban Kansas City creek after a car in which she was riding was washed off a low-water bridge. Two youths and another girl in the car with her swam to safety.

Labor's Day

To most of us, it's the last long weekend of summer, a fond farewell to fun and games, and a breather before buckling down for the long pull to the year-end holidays.

And this is as it should be. It was the original intention for Labor Day, as conceived by Peter J. McGuire just 83 years ago, in 1882. McGuire, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and an active leader in the Knights of Labor, campaigned for a holiday for labor. He suggested the first Monday in September because it fell midway between July 4 and Thanksgiving. And in those days of cents-an-hour wages and long hours, labor truly needed a breather.

New York Central Labor Union turned out that first Monday of September 1882 for the first Labor Day parade. Oregon's legislature in 1887 declared the first Monday of September should be a state holiday in honor of labor. By 1894, 30 states had taken similar action. Congress passed a bill recognizing Labor Day as a national holiday the same year.

Argentina Miffed As U. S. Figures Skip Tours There

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Top U.S. public figures are skipping Argentina when they tour South America. This is raising eyebrows in the area's second largest republic.

The issue was triggered by the visit of a U.S. mission to Brazil last month. The mission was headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright and included several other top names.

The group went back to Washington with glowing reports on Brazil's key role in South American affairs. This is a touchy subject in Argentina, Brazil's rival in a century-old political contest for the top spot in the hemisphere.

Then came this week's visit to Chile by Jack Hood Vaughn, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and the announcement that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will visit Brazil, Chile and Venezuela late this year.

"This is becoming a habit," a government official said. "We simply don't seem to count."

A U.S. official gave a different view. "The Fulbright group went to Brazil to check on the spot how to help that country out of economic troubles. Argentina should be glad it doesn't have the kind of real big problems that would bring a top American mission scurrying down here for some sort of emergency cure."

Some elements of the military forces assert President Arturo Illia is letting Argentine prestige slide.

Youth Is Arrested For Five Violations

James Dibble, 20 of Kingston pleaded guilty to five traffic violations in City Court today and was released on $500 bail for reckless driving to await a pre-sentence investigation.

Dibble was arrested about 3:17 a. m. today by local police on charges of passing a red light, failure to keep right, unsafe backing, speeding and reckless driving.

He was confined to the Ulster County jail overnight to await arraignment in City Court this morning.

Accused of Running

The case of Michael Higgins, 16 of 9 Warren Street who was arrested Friday night on a public intoxication charge and a charge of escaping custody was adjourned until Sept. 8 in City Court.

According to a police report, Higgins escaped from police arrest last night, was apprehended again and later released into his mother's custody. Police said he had been causing a disturbance near the Masonic Temple on Broadway.

Twin Triumphs Take Drive Aplenty Steel Settlement, Home Rule Victories for LBJ

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Armed with statistics, sandwiches, a telephone and an array of lobbying allies, President Johnson has triumphed in both ends of a double power play.

Johnson won his twin victories Friday, on Capitol Hill and in a guarded conference room near the White House where negotiators reached what he termed "essential agreement" on terms of a new steel contract.

For both battles, the President summoned the persuasive powers of his personality and his office.

Before nightfall he faced television cameras and radio microphones to declare in triumph that the grim threat of a steel walkout "has been met head-on and has been overcome."

Johnson already had proclaimed that with action in the House forcing a late September vote on home rule for Washington "we near victory in the final battle of the American Revolution."

Holiday in Texas

His two battles won, Johnson was home in Texas today for a Labor Day weekend on the LBJ Ranch. He headed south about an hour after he announced the steelmen had come to terms.

In his drive for a steel settlement, Johnson used statistics to put before negotiators his first concrete settlement recommendations. He did not say if they became part of the agreement.

He sent the sandwiches — and some fish soup — to keep the dozen negotiators at their bargaining table without a break for meals.

While the President climaxed his steel settlement bid, congressmen marveled — or muttered — about the high-powered lobbying drive Johnson turned on to win majority backing for a petition that will force a House vote Sept. 27 on self-government in the District of Columbia. The capital now is governed by Congress and presidential appointees.

Shipley Signs

The petition went over the majority mark, and guaranteed Sept. 27 House action, when Rep. George E. Shipley, D-Ill., signed his name Friday.

Shipley, after a day of telephone calls at his Olney, Ill., home, flew to Washington and signed up moments after the House went into session.

Missing From Home

Shipley said he got a call from the White House, but not from Johnson himself. Some other wavering House members heard from the President directly.

A six-man team from the White House and Democratic headquarters set up shop Thursday in the office of Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., to talk unsigned congressmen into putting their names on the petition.

Based on Analysis

All week, the White House had said Johnson was making no government proposals for a contract settlement. Johnson sent his first recommendations a few hours before he revealed the settlement. It was based on an analysis of union and management contract offers by his Council of Economic Advisers.

In the Capitol Hill campaign, while his aides did the face-to-face work off the House floor, Johnson telephoned wavering congressmen.

"The President asked me if I would sign it," said Rep. Richard C. White, D-Tex. "I did it because the President had a problem. I did it to help him."

A Johnson call also won the signature of Rep. Charles L. Welter, D-Ga.

Other congressmen heard from Democratic party leaders, in Washington and in their home districts.

One late signer reported telephone calls from men who lobby for the departments of the Interior, Labor and Agriculture.

"They said the White House was really pushing this thing," a congressional aide said. "They seemed a little embarrassed. They're used to the soft sell approach for their own projects."
